MANY KILLED IN COLLAPSE OF HOUSES IN MERIDIAN

Tornado Causes Death of 121 in Mississippi Town.

FIRE ADDS HORROR

Path 600 Feet Wide Plowed Through Heart of the Populous Community.

VICTIMS MOSTLY NEGROES

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

MOBILE, ALA., March 3.—A destructive tornado visited Meridian, Miss., at 6:30 last evening, killing twenty-one white persons and over 100 negroes, and damaging property to the extent of $1,500,000.

Scores were seriously injured by being caught in the wreckage of houses. The tornado caught the city on the southwest and traveled to the northwest, expending itself in two suburbs where many negroes were killed and injured, a whole tenement quarter being wiped out.

Eighteen bodies have been recovered. Among those known to be dead are:

MRS. ELLA SINGLETON AND GRANDDAUGHTER.
MACKEY SLAUGHTER.
CLAUDE WILLIAMS.
P. T. M'INNIS, conductor on Mobile & Ohio.
WILLIAM R. NELSON, formerly city marshall.

Among the injured are:
CHARLES ELMIRE.
W. J. WOODSIDE.
T. H. BROWN.
ERNEST BENNETT.
FRANK WOODRUFF.
WILL YARBROUGH.
W. C. MORRISON.

Two large wholesale stores, one smaller one, the principal hotel, the electric light plant and all the smaller property between the Mobile & Ohio railroad station and the business part of the city are badly damaged.

Twenty-one men were caught in a restaurant and several were killed. Two stories of the Y. M. C. A. building were wrecked and other buildings suffered in the upper stories.

The negro tenement quarter in the north of the city was demolished and the debris caught fire, threatening a new danger, but the local department, with the help of hundreds of citizens, overcame this after a hard fight.

They were assisted by the torrential rain following the tornado.

The city is in darkness and the full extent of the disaster will not be known until daylight.

The path of the storm was about 600 feet wide, and one mile in length.

The tornado passed over in about two minutes, and during that period three or four whole squares were devastated.

A conservative estimate places the number of buildings blown down at between 30 and 40. Among the heaviest losers are the Meyer & Neville Hardware Company, Tom Lyle & Co., wholesale drygoods and groceries; Joseph Moore, wholesale drygoods and groceries; New Orleans & Northeastern freight depot and other buildings.

The Southern hotel is safe, but the Grand Avenue hotel was damaged. The guests in the latter building escaped and no one was injured.

One of the injured, a man named Johnson, was hemmed in by the wreckage and at 10 o'clock tonight he was reached by the rescuing party, to whom he spoke and begged them to hurry to extricate him.

Trains are entering the city on time. Wires of the telegraph companies are still down.

MANY IN THE WRECKAGE.

New Orleans Reports Show Number of Dead May Reach 2,002 Bodies Cremated.

NEW ORLEANS, LA., March 3.—(Special.)—Meridian, Miss., was hit by a cyclone this evening. The dead are placed anywhere from 50 to 200.

At least 20 bodies were burned to a crisp in a fire which occurred immediately after the tornado. Four complete blocks along the tracks of the Queen & Crescent railroad were wiped out of existence, one building, that of the Armour Packing Company, being much damaged.

Several trains have gone out from New Orleans to the assistance of the stricken town.

The negro section was wiped out and the charred bodies of over 20 were found in the burned ruins.

It is believed that as soon as daylight comes many other bodies will be found.

Sixteen men are known to have been buried in the freight depot and none of them has been rescued, although it is believed that many of them are still alive.

The work of rescue is going on as rapidly as possible and by morning it will be possible to obtain a full list of the dead and injured.

The cyclone broke over the city as the people were returning from their work, and many were struck with flying bricks and timbers.

Three entire squares are leveled to the ground in the business district. The Northeastern freight depot was wrecked, thousands of dollars worth of freight being ruined by water and another large amount by fire.

ARREST J. R. WALSH FOR VIOLATING BANK LAWS

Former President of Defunct National Bank Charged With Taking $3,000,000.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, March 3.—John R. Walsh, president of the defunct Chicago National bank, which closed its doors December 18, 1905, was today taken into custody on a federal warrant, which charges him with violation of the national banking laws in making false returns to the comptroller of the currency, and also asserts that he converted to his own use without proper authority funds of the bank amounting to $3,000,000. He was released after giving bonds to the amount of $50,000.

The arrest of Walsh came as the direct result of the last examination of the books of the Chicago National bank, made by Special Bank Examiner Arthur L. Curry, sent to Chicago from Washington. The data furnished to the treasury department in Washington was sent to District Attorney Morrison in this city with instructions to take the proper steps in the matter. Mr. Morrison early today swore to the complaint before United States Commissioner Foote, who issued a warrant for the arrest of Walsh, and placed it in the hands of Deputy Marshal Middleton. Walsh was found in his office and placed under arrest, but friends of the ex-banker asked that the officers delay for a few hours before allowing the news of the arrest to become public, because of some financial matters that might be affected.

This was granted, and twice more the friends of Walsh asked and obtained a brief respite. A short time after 2 o'clock, however, Deputy Marshal Middleton refused to wait for a longer time and took Mr. Walsh to the office of United States Marshal Ames. After remaining in the office of Marshal Ames for two hours, Walsh was released under bonds of $50,000, which were furnished by the Illinois Surety Company. After being released on bail he made the following statement:

"The charge in effect is that as president of the bank I signed a report to the comptroller, which report, it is now alleged, is false. The report in question would ordinarily have been signed by the cashier, but by reason of his temporary absence it was signed by me as a matter of course. The report referred to, however, was undoubtedly correct in every particular. I believe, however, that a more thorough investigation of the facts by the department of justice and a comparison of the report with the books of the bank will convince the department that its action is uncalled for, and cannot be sustained."

The preliminary hearing of Walsh, before United States Commissioner Foote, was set for March 10, at 10 a. m.

GIVE GIRL BIG DAMAGES.

Chicago Jury Finds Person Can Be Shocked Without Touching Electric Wires.

CHICAGO, March 2.—(Special.)—Ruth Bostrum, a pretty 16-year-old girl, who is partly blind and half-paralyzed, was awarded $20,000 in damages from the Union Traction Company by a jury today. With one exception, the verdict is the largest personal damage award made in the Cook county courts.

The case is one of the most remarkable in court annals because the jury has practically declared a new and hitherto unbelievable theory to be true. The jury found that it was possible for a person to receive a blighting and paralyzing shock of electricity without touching the electric wires—in fact while being four feet away from them.

CONGRESSMEN ARE CITY'S GUESTS TWO DAYS

To Tour Greater Pittsburgh in Train and Automobiles—Big Banquet Tonight.

Greater Pittsburgh will be exhibited today to the congressmen of the national committee on buildings and grounds to impress upon them the urgent necessity of a larger postoffice. The Washington committee will be the official guests of the city of Pittsburgh for two days.

Arrangements for their entertainment were completed yesterday by the special committee of councils, assisted by representatives of the Pittsburgh chamber of commerce, Merchants and Manufacturers' association, Pittsburgh board of trade and Oakland board of trade.

The first day will be one of sight-seeing among the industries of the greater city, followed by an inspection of the various sites proposed for the new $3,000,000 postoffice, winding up with a banquet at which the members of the congressional party will meet city officials, leading business men and distinguished citizens of the community. From start to finish it will be a boom for a greater postoffice for the greater city.

That the congressmen themselves are deeply interested is evidenced by the fact that a portion of the committee, which had planned to go to Boston today on a similar excursion, declared the trip off and nearly the whole committee will be in Pittsburgh today.

Sight-Seeing by Rail.

The congressmen will today see Pittsburgh proper, Allegheny, which soon will be a part of the city, and the adjacent boroughs which are destined to join the larger municipality. All the territory through which the congressmen will be taken on a special train, and the industries which they will see, are within the radius of the operations of the Pittsburgh postoffice.

The congressmen, escorted from Wash-

PATTERSON QUIT BECAUSE OF SOCIALISTIC IDEAS

Chicago Commissioner of Public Works Resigns in Long Letter to Mayor.

PRINCIPLE VS. POWER

Declares Public Ownership of Municipal Utilities Alone Will Not Cure Ills.

COMPLIMENTS MAYOR DUNNE

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, March 2.—Commissioner of Public Works Joseph Medill Patterson has tendered his resignation to Mayor Edward F. Dunne. The resignation was sent by Mr. Patterson to Mayor Dunne Wednesday. Nothing was publicly known of the resignation, however, until today a copy mailed by Mr. Patterson at Washington, D. C., was received.

The letter written by Mr. Patterson to Mayor Dunne, forwarding the resignation, is extremely long, containing a review of the present situation in all branches of Mr. Patterson's department.

Mayor Dunne at once wrote to Mr. Patterson, accepting his resignation and promising to reply to his letter in the near future. "I have accepted the resignation of Mr. Patterson with sincere regret," said the mayor. "He says that he has resigned because he is a Socialist. I do not think that it was necessary for him to resign. Because he cannot accomplish everything the Socialists want accomplished, he has evidently become disheartened."

Supplements Letter.

NEW YORK, March 2.—Joseph Medill Patterson, whose resignation as commissioner of public works of Chicago was announced today, and who at present is stopping in this city, expressed his views on Socialism tonight, incidentally mentioning that he believed Mayor Dunne was the best mayor Chicago had ever had, but he did not carry his ideas far enough. Mr. Patterson came out flat-footed as a Socialist, indicating that he felt that the culmination of the Socialistic idea was the only true solution of economic problems.

He proceeded to discuss his department in Chicago, declaring that he had started in to reorganize the water department; that he had needed ordinances for the concentration of authority and other matters, and that these ordinances were passed almost unanimously.

"It was all right so long as special interests were not affected," said Mr. Patterson. "I found that small consumers of water were paying 10 cents a thousand and that larger consumers, 21 of them, including the stock yards and other interests, using more than 10,000,000 gallons each a month, were paying 4 cents. I asked for a flat rate and recommended 8 cents. I didn't care what it was so long as it was a flat rate for all. But the ordinance never went through. I don't believe it ever will."

Mr. Patterson closed his interview by saying that he had contemplated resigning for some time, but that he had withheld because of the Chicago city primaries, not wishing to embarrass Mayor Dunne. These are now over. He resigned, he said, because he felt that if he had remained in the Dunne administration he would have been expected to advocate the election of a municipal ownership ticket. This, he felt, he could not do, and added that if he took part in politics he would have to take the Socialist side.

He related the process by which he

WALLACE CLAIMS AMERICA IS BEATEN FROM THE START

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, March 2.—John F. Wallace, formally chief engineer of the Panama canal, was the chief speaker at the banquet of the Illinois Manufacturers' association tonight. He chose for his subject "Some Phases of the Panama Problem."

The speaker sketched the difficulties that lie in the way of the successful building and operation of the canal, denied the report that the trans-continental railroads have been working against the building of the canal across the isthmus, and added:

"The present status is that we have been in possession of the work for approximately two years, have expended some $70,000,000, and have excavated about one per cent of the material which must be removed from the Culebra excavation for a sea-level canal, or two per cent of the material to be excavated for the high-level project. Up to the present time the force has been employed largely on preparatory work of all kinds."

"The situation now is that of an army of 30,000 men and officers equipped and waiting for instructions as to the plan of campaign, before the word is given to strengthen up the skirmish line and commence the attack upon the enemy. While the construction of the Panama canal will confer great benefits on the commerce of the world, the commercial interests of Great Britain have not been blind to the possibilities of a project and route, which will, in large measure, anticipate the future benefits of the construction of the Panama canal, and give immediate results, pending its accomplishment, with a strong probability of being able to retain the trade if once secured. I refer to the railroad transportation facilities which are about to be completed in the interests of British capitalists across the Isthmus of Tehauntepec, a distance of about 176 miles. This railroad is being constructed in a most substantial manner, provided with the very best facilities, equipment, etc., in order to handle a large amount of traffic at the minimum cost per ton. Modern machinery and methods will enable this railroad to conduct a profitable business at a rate of not to exceed $2 a ton from shiphold to shiphold, and with the best modern loading and unloading facilities, proper wharves, warehouses and harbor terminals, the time from ship to ship should not exceed an average of two days."

AGED NEW YORK SENATOR AGAIN ENTANGLED IN BITTER SUIT.

HON. THOMAS C. PLATT.

OFFERS $2,500,000 FOR THE SANTA FE CENTRAL ROAD

Agent Acting for System Is Said to Have Made Successful Bid for Property.

C. W. Tallmadge of the firm of C. W. & E. R. Tallmadge of Chicago, colonizing agents, was in the city yesterday and reported that he had made an offer to Francis J. Torrance and the receiver of the Enterprise National bank of Allegheny to purchase the Santa Fe Central railroad for a figure representing 100 per cent of the money invested. The road cost Mr. Torrance, W. H. Andrews, the late T. Lee Clark and their associates, about $2,500,000. It is reported, but not confirmed by the promoters of the road, that the offer of Mr. Tallmadge was accepted.

This railroad property figured prominently in the Enterprise bank failure, it being reported that W. H. Andrews had borrowed large sums of money from the institution on some of the railroad's collateral. If the sale is finally consummated it will add much toward meeting the claims of the depositors of the defunct financial institution. Francis J. Torrance last night refused to discuss the report, though he admitted that Mr. Tallmadge had been in the city.

The Santa Fe Central railroad operates 116 miles of track from Santa Fe, N. M., to Torrance, which lies in almost a direct line south. It forms a junction with the Denver & Rio Grande at Santa Fe, and with the Santa Fe railroad at Kennedy, 23 miles south of Santa Fe. The Rock Island system forms a junction with the line at Torrance.

Mr. Tallmadge stated last evening that the parties he represents contemplate extending the line from Moriarty to Albuquerque, a distance of about 12 miles, and from Torrance to Roswell, a distance of about 60 miles. As Albuquerque is on the Santa Fe line, and as Roswell is on the Pecos Valley & Northeastern railway, a branch of the Santa Fe, it is believed that Mr. Tallmadge is acting in the interests of that company. It has been reported that the Denver & Rio Grande and Rock Island, as well as the Santa Fe, have been negotiating for the road during the past few weeks.

MRS. LONGWORTH SEASICK.

President's Daughter and Her Husband Once More Step on Soil of United States.

TAMPA, FLA., March 2.—(Special.)—After an unusually rough passage from Havana Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth arrived at Port Tampa on the steamer Mascotte at 2:30 this afternoon, immediately boarding the private Pullman car Crassmere and coming to the city. Here they were the guests of Collector of Customs MacFarlane, who entertained them at dinner at a Spanish cafe. They left at 8:40 over the Atlantic coast line for Washington.

Mr. Longworth said they enjoyed every moment of their stay in Cuba. The steamer encountered bad weather Thursday and nearly all the passengers were seasick, Mrs. Longworth being among the number.

GO TO CLASS DINNER UNDER GUARD OF POLICE

REACH A CRISIS IN THE LEGAL FIGHT UPON PLATT

Senator and Nephew Accused of Taking $3,000,000 Worth of Lumber.

REVIVES A SCANDAL

Girl Who Charged Platt With Breach of Promise Gives Prosecution Information.

ROMANTIC STORY IS INVOLVED

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, March 2.—Court proceedings of the last 24 hours have forced a crisis in the legal battle long waged in the circuit and probate courts of Cook county between United States Senator Platt of New York and James Donovan of Chicago. Donovan accuses Platt and his nephew, J. Platt Underwood, of wrongfully taking for their own use timber worth more than $3,000,000 from forest lands in Wisconsin, which is declared to be the property of Donovan and the estate of his former partner, La Flora S. Baker, formerly of Big Rapids, Mich.

The trial of the case will, it is asserted, revive the scandal involving the senator and Mae C. Wood, the former employe of the postoffice department at Washington, who brought suit against Platt for breach of promise a few years ago and accused him of conspiring with Robert J. Wynne and J. Martin Miller to obtain possession of the manuscript of a book that she had written, entitled "Love Letters of a Boss."

While the senator was trying to evade the legal traps Miss Wood was setting for him, she is declared to have been living under an assumed name in Colorado, Mich., in close touch with Col. Donovan, comparing notes with him and supplying him with information gleaned by her through the long association with the senator. This information, it is believed, was responsible for the recovery of the lost Wisconsin county records.

The remarkable complications in the Platt-Donovan case are deepened by the romantic intimation that Baker is really alive and maintaining a residence in New York, while Judge Cutting is endeavoring to settle up his estate in Chicago. That jurist was asked yesterday to enter an order calling upon the Northern Trust Company and Attorney Clarence A. Burley to produce in the probate court the books of the firm of James Donovan & Co., which Baker is said to have made away with before his alleged death in 1894.

Tomorrow Donovan, acting as his own attorney, will go before Judge Windes to complete arrangements to leave for New York with a court order authorizing the taking of a deposition from his arch enemy, Senator Platt, whose health is such that he cannot come to Chicago.

Dating back to the organization of a number of partnerships in the lumber industry in Wisconsin and Michigan in 1870, when the lumber business was at its height, it involves alleged forgeries of deeds and other papers relating to the transfer of property, alleged false declarations and other operations that Donovan declares will be responsible for someone going to jail when the case is finally disposed of.

COAL MINE ON SCHOOL SITE

Five Foot Vein Is Discovered by Contractors for Allegheny Institution.

Just as the contractors engaged in excavating for the new Twelfth ward school house, Fairview avenue, Allegheny, had completed their work yesterday afternoon, a five-foot bituminous coal vein was uncovered. Architect William E. Snaman announced that he would have the bearing weight of the coal tested, but Supt. Ellsworth Murphy of the bureau of building inspection ordered that the coal be removed and the excavation continued another five feet, as he feared that the weight of the building would be too great to hold the building.

As a result, the contractors turned coal operators, and are selling the coal at the rate of $1 a ton, with over 3,000 tons to dispense at this rate. It is said they will apply the money so received as their payment for the additional excavation, which is far beyond that of the average contract price.

Wreck Hurts Six Railroad Men.

ALTOONA, PA., March 2.—(Special)—An empty engine stopped on a switch at New Portage Junction on the Pennsylvania railroad this morning and did not get clear of the main track. Another engine struck it and six men were slightly injured.

Explosion Kills Two Men.

ERIE, PA., March 2.—An explosion at the Bury Compressor works about 5:30 o'clock this afternoon caused the death of Edmund Bury, aged 28, the owner, and Albert Vollmer, aged 35. Bury was so badly mangled he died on the way to the hospital.

EFFORT TO BAR RAILROADS FAILS

La Follette Loses Fight to Protect Indian Coal Lands from Corporations.

KNOX'S SIGNIFICANT REMARK

WASHINGTON, March 2.—The senate today passed the bill providing for the settlement of the affairs of the five civilized tribes. Under the guise of considering the bill, the senate spent practically the entire day in the discussion of the railroad question. The subject was raised by Mr. LaFollette's proposed amendment to the Indian bill prohibiting railroad companies and their stockholders from acquiring the coal lands in Indian territory.

Notwithstanding Mr. LaFollette has sat in the senate for less than three months he led the debate and occupied more time than any other senator. He contended that the prohibition contained in his amendment is necessary to prevent the railroads from controlling the coal business of Indian territory. He enlarged his remarks so as to cover other territory and thus give the debate a somewhat general scope.

Several senators, while expressing sympathy with the purpose of the amendment, raised constitutional objections. Late in the day the LaFollette amendment, together with all the Indian committees' amendments were laid on the table. The bill has passed both the house and senate, but as the senate amended it, it will now go into conference.

Cites Keystone State.

It is a general bill for the adjustment of the affairs of the five civilized tribes upon their abandonment of their tribal organizations.

Senator LaFollette laid especial stress upon the necessity of prohibiting railroad stockholders from acquiring the lands and referred to the fact that through their officers the railroads of Pennsylvania own 98 per cent of the anthracite coal, he declared that they had driven the independent operators and independent owners out of business, thus rendering all the people who use anthracite dependent upon eight or nine corporations.

It had been said that if the railroad companies want the coal lands they will get them regardless of what congress may do. He could not agree to that doctrine.

"I want," he said, "to put on record the protest of one individual against the doctrine that the railroad companies can secure the mastery of any of the national products of the country, so as to interfere with their being fair. I want it put on record that this government of the United States is stronger than any of its creatures, stronger than the railroads in the aggregate and all the centralized power of the corporations represented by unlawful corporations and trusts. I would write it in the statutes that the railroad companies must be common carriers and nothing else."

Knox in Sympathy.

Mr. Newlands charged that the great corporations practically control all the coal lands in Pennsylvania and West Virginia, and said they were rapidly extending their operations in Colorado, Utah, New Mexico and other states.

Mr. LaFollette again took the floor. He said that all the senators who spoke professed sympathy with his motive, but contended that his provision went too far. "What will it avail?" he asked, "if the railroads are cut out and their stockholders are allowed to own the coal lands?" He said that experience for 20 years in Pennsylvania and for 20 years in West Virginia had shown that such a course might result in the control of the mines by the roads. Appeals had been made to him to accept a modification of the amendment, but he could not see his way clear to do so.

Mr. Knox asked whether, under the amendment, stock in a coal mine in Indian territory inherited by a young man living in an outside state would revert to the United States, and in reply Mr. LaFollette said he thought that would be a legitimate conclusion, but he added the conviction that in so great an emergency the rights of individual should yield to the general welfare.

Mr. Knox suggested the objection that the amendment would accomplish the confiscation of the property of innocent owners in coal mines. In presenting the difficulty suggested by him, Mr. Knox said that he was in perfect sympathy with the object of the amendment, adding that he believed the business of railroads should be confined to transportation.

PHILIPPINE BILL DIES IN SENATE

Senate Committee Refuses to Report It Either Favorably or Otherwise.

PARTY LINES ARE SPLIT UP

SPECIAL TELEGRAM FROM L. W. STRAYER, Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—The Philippine tariff bill is dead. By a vote of eight to five the senate committee on the Philippines today decided not to report the bill, either favorably or unfavorably.

It is possible that Senator Lodge may move to discharge the committee from further consideration and thus try to bring it directly before the senate, but that is not considered probable. From present indications the bill is dead for this session, and other important questions, notably the railroad rate bill, will intervene and prevent further attention being given to the Philippine tariff by the senate.

Five Republicans and three Democrats voted against reporting the bill. They were Hale, Burrows, Dick, Nixon and Brandagee, Republicans, and Culberson, Dubois and Stone, Democrats. Senators Lodge, Beveridge and Long, Republicans, and Carmack and McCreary, Democrats, voted affirmatively.

Despite the fact that the bill had the strength of the administration back of it, and that it was put forward by the Republican leaders of the house, there has been strong opposition to it. When it was before the house the Republican insurrection against it threatened at one time to assume such proportions as to defeat it, but as insurrections in that body usually do, it fizzled out and those Republican members who voted against it were men who represented the beet sugar districts or districts that it was feared would be directly affected by the free importation of Philippine goods.

The Democrats voted solidly in favor of the bill, taking the stand that it was a step in the direction of free trade.

The tobacco interests of Pennsylvania have been opposed to the bill, claiming that the free importation of Philippine cigars would injure the domestic trade in cheap cigars and stogies and would cause the loss of at least a million dollars a year to the tobacco growers of Lancaster county.

The bill provides for the reduction of the duty on sugar, tobacco and rice to 25 per cent of the Dingley rates, and after three years for absolute free trade.

When the committee voted against reporting the bill today Senator McCreary moved to report favorably his bill, which provides for free trade immediately in the articles mentioned. But four senators voted for this proposition.

ARE THE CITY'S GUESTS

ington by a committee of Pittsburgh councils, are expected to arrive at the Union station, as soon after their arrival as possible, the guests will be transferred to a special train of two Pullman chair cars, two dining and an observation car. Accommodations on the special will be provided for 60 persons. Not later than 9:30 o'clock this train is expected to move out of Union station, run to East Liberty station, stopping there to take on some local members of the party, and then cross the Allegheny river on the Brilliant cut-off to Allegheny. A stop may be made at the stockyards at Herr's Island and at the Heinz establishment.

To View Sites in Automobiles.

Running down to lower Allegheny, the train will cross the Ohio river on the Ohio connecting bridge and run up the South Side to Homestead and Duquesne, stopping half an hour at the big Homestead mills. No stop will be made at Duquesne longer than necessary to turn around. The Monongahela river will be crossed to Braddock where the train will stand on a siding for an hour while luncheon is served. The last plant to be visited will be the Westinghouse works at Wilmerding.

The special is expected to return to East Liberty station at 2:30 o'clock, there to find automobiles that will take the party to the various postoffice sites in the downtown district and to the Pittsburgh postoffice at about 5 o'clock, which is one of the rush hours of the day.

The banquet at 6:30 o'clock at the Hotel Annex, Penn avenue, will be an elaborate affair. Accommodations have been provided for 351 persons in this new banquet hall. No set program of speech-making has been made except that Congressman John Dalzell will deliver the principal address and recite the needs of the city for a greater postoffice.

Banquet to Close Busy Day.

Congressman James Francis Burke will be toastmaster. Mayor Hays will be present, but he will not be one of the speakers. Five-minute talks are expected from John Eaton, president of the Pittsburgh chamber of commerce; President E. J. Lloyd of the Merchants and Manufacturers' association; T. D. Harman of the Pittsburgh board of trade, and C. H. Chance of the Oakland board of trade. The balance of the program will be given to Chairman Bartholdt and other members of the visiting congressional committee. The banquet will probably last close to midnight.

Sunday will be a quiet day for the visitors. An automobile ride through the city will be afforded. The congressional party will be given a luncheon at the Duquesne club tomorrow and will return to Washington in the evening.

POSTPONE HEARINGS AGAINST RAILROADS

WASHINGTON, March 2.—The case of the Donohue Coke Company of Greensburg, Pa., against the Keystone Coal Company and the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, involving the question of discrimination in the distribution of cars and the ratings of the mines, set for hearing by the interstate commerce commission in Pittsburgh, March 8, has been postponed to some date in the future, to be announced by the commission.

KELLER'S DEATH HAS MYSTIFIED POLICE

Is Found With Fractured Skull Lying in Hallway and Dies in a Hospital.

William Keller, aged 50, who was found with a fractured skull in the hallway of 57 Eighteenth street at noon yesterday, died at the West Penn hospital at 6 o'clock last night. How he received his injuries is a mystery to the police and coroner. It was learned he had been drinking with Charles Schrader. Schrader, who is under arrest, said he accompanied Keller to his rooms and found the place vacant. Keller suggested they sleep on the floor. Schrader said he was soon asleep, and when he awoke at 8 o'clock yesterday morning Keller was gone.

Robert Riley was found dead in his room in Penn avenue, Turtle Creek, yesterday morning, following his discharge the day before from his position as night foreman of laborers at the Westinghouse works. An empty bottle which had contained laudanum showed what had caused death. Riley was 58 years old.

Jeremiah Shields, aged 50, of 1039 East Ohio street, Allegheny, died at the Homeopathic hospital last evening. He was a driver, and on Thursday midnight a street car struck his wagon at New Grant street and Liberty avenue, knocked him off and cut his scalp badly. Erysipelas set in and caused death.

Barbara Sterling, aged 14, of Dravosburg, died at her home yesterday. On Tuesday she tripped on a boardwalk, her head was injured and she was hurt internally.

James Burns, aged 48, a lamp cleaner, died at the West Penn hospital last evening from a shock as the result of an amputation of a leg. Burns was struck by a team yesterday at Forty-third street and the Allegheny railroad.

INSURANCE MEN HOLD ANNIVERSARY BANQUET

Fittingly Celebrate Twentieth Year of Pittsburgh Underwriters' Association.

In commemoration of the twentieth anniversary of the founding of the organization, 30 members of the Pittsburgh Life Underwriters' association held a most enjoyable banquet at the Monongahela club last night. The event was made notable by the presence of a number of the charter members, although deep regret was expressed over the absence of one of them, J. C. Bergstresser, editor of the Insurance World, who sailed yesterday from New York for an extended Southern trip. Mr. Bergstresser was to have made an address at the banquet, and a letter of regret from him, filled with reminiscences of the initial gathering of the kind, was read by Secretary William M. Wood. Prof. W. C. Lyne, one of the charter members, spoke on the beginnings of the organization and compared conditions then with modern methods; C. W. Scovel, president of the National Association of Life Underwriters, followed with a finished address on "The Primal Duty," and informal talks were made by ex-Senator George W. Delamater, Norman Wooldridge, Edwin L. Porter, J. M. Dalbey, S. L. Fleishman, Leonard Fosdick and others.

At the business meeting, held earlier in the evening, the following officers were elected for the current year: President, C. B. Knight; first vice president, W. M. Furey; second vice president, N. S. Woolridge; secretary, William M. Wood; treasurer, J. C. Biggert; executive committee, P. G. Brown, D. B. Bell, L. C. Robens, W. C. Baldwin and J. M. Dalbey.

NEW YORK, March 2.—(Special.)—Josephine Terranova, aged 17, a prisoner in the Tombs, who is charged with the death of her uncle, Gaetano Riggio, must also face trial for the killing of her aunt, Concetta Riggio, the latter having died this afternoon. The Riggios lived in Williamsbridge. The girl claimed she stabbed Riggio because he had wronged her when she was a child.

OBJECT TO REPEAL OF BANKRUPT LAWS

Credit Men Attack This Effort in Congress, Saying Banks Are Responsible.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Arguments against the repeal of the national bankruptcy act were made to the house committee on the judiciary today by a number of credit men of the country. There were present representatives of the following credit men's associations: Chicago, Pittsburgh, New York, Philadelphia, Buffalo, Boston, Richmond, Baltimore, the Jewelers' association, the Illinois association, the national board of trade, the Traders' association, the National Manufacturers' association.

W. A. Pendergast of New York said there were nine bills pending for the repeal of the bankruptcy act. The entire delegation was opposed to each one. It favored the Palmer bill, which amends the bankruptcy law. The amendments, he said, were to check the discharge of dishonest debtors; to make it more easy to punish commercial criminals; to meet existing criticisms growing out of the too liberal allowances to receivers, and to widen the law as to insolvent corporations.

The demand for the repeal of the law, it was stated, came from banks. The reason was that under state laws failing debtors could prefer their creditors and the banks in nearly all cases benefited. State officials who had been deprived of their fees during the operation of the national law also were anxious to have that law repealed.

Later the delegates called on President Roosevelt. The President assured them that he would give careful consideration to the subject, and would do all that he could do to safeguard their interests.

VOICE WRATH AGAINST BAD TROLLEY SERVICE

Millvale and Etna Citizens Hold Indignation Meeting as Result of Recent Accidents.

Moved by the two serious accidents of last Saturday, to open declaration of wrath and indignation, which has been smouldering for years, hundreds of Millvale and Etna residents crowded the Millvale opera house last night in an angry protest against the miserable street car service given them by the Pittsburgh Railways Company.

Burgess-elect Edward Vero of Millvale presided. After mild speech by Attorney C. E. Theobald, borough solicitor of Millvale, the Rev. M. C. Campbell, pastor of the Millvale Presbyterian church, waded into the corporation. Equally vehement were the speeches of the Rev. C. E. Smith, the Rev. K. Loos, H. W. Ochse, A. R. Dunbar, George McConnell, E. B. Holden and Councilman John Houahen.

The protests took tangible shape in authorizing a committee to prepare resolutions setting forth the grievances of the citizens and asking for immediate remedy. A committee of six citizens to act in conjunction with a committee from councils of the two boroughs, was named and includes C. E. Theobald, W. S. Cooper, the Rev. M. C. Campbell of Millvale, H. W. Ochse, Henry Perling and Burgess W. E. Johnson of Etna. The company will be given a reasonable time to bring about the changes demanded.

EMPLOYED SENATOR'S SON.

Lively Times Had During Hearing Before Senatorial Committee on Isthmian Affairs—Cromwell Rebuked.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—During the examination of J. E. Markel of Omaha, whose commissary contract on the isthmus was cancelled, before the senate committee today, it developed that W. B. Millard, son of Senator Millard, chairman of the committee, was employed by Markel 11 days after he secured the contract. He denied that political influence had secured him the grant. Markel was compelled to file a typewritten statement he had with him.

In the examination of W. Nelson Cromwell, the witness and Senator Morgan had several other passages of angry words, Cromwell saying his answers were no more indecent or unusual than the senator's questions. He was reprimanded by the committee, and told to choose his words more carefully.

WELL-DRESSED MAN SUICIDES

Bids Laides Good-By and Jumps Into the Ocean from Public Pier.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 2.—(Special.)—With a courtly bow and a "Goodby, Ladies," a well-dressed man, whom Mrs. William Schimpf and two friends had noticed acting strangely, jumped to the rail of Young's pier this evening and plunged into the sea.

The women screamed for help, but before pier employes arrived the man had disappeared. He was about 65 years of age, well dressed and wore a long overcoat. Men in lifeboats are looking for the body.

Latest Creations for the Fashion Plates Show the Narrow-Chested Man to Be the Real Thing.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

PHILADELPHIA, March 2.—Both the man and the woman who want to be not only well dressed, but attired in what fashion has decreed as the very latest, found an interest today in visiting the exhibit being made by the merchant tailors' exchange in the red room of the Bellevue-Stratford. The man of fashion who is particular about the fit of his coat should look in on the tailors' exhibit. There he would find that all is snug about the chest and shoulders, but below the waist line there is a distinct flare in the coats of the latest fashion.

During the spring and summer the shirtmakers are to work hand in hand with the tailors. For the productions of the last named are designed, almost without exception, in such a fashion as to show an unusually large expanse of shirt. The opening in the vests is extremely low, some of them not having more than three widely spread buttons, and the coat collars roll down almost to the waist line. Several of the smartest coats shown are fastened with only one button.

And those marvelous vests, those colorful modern-day creations which though not eclipsing the gaudy affairs of our great grandfathers' days are of a brilliancy tempered with good taste and the talk of the town.

A cord and braid is most in evidence on coats, vests and trousers. It is generally wide and showy, and not only runs down the sides of trousers, but outlines every pocket of the coat and vest as well.

A remarkable innovation is a gray dress suit, the coat of which is lined with silk of pale lavender, and instead of being cut off abruptly in the "claw-hammer" fashion it slopes away gradually from the waist and ends behind in almost a point.

MOORE SETTLES CHURCH FIGHT

Director Sees His Duty and Does It in Controversy Between Trustees and Janitor.

HAVE DISPUTE OVER KEYS

Director Moore was called upon yesterday to settle a dispute between the trustees of the Tweny-fifth Street Methodist Episcopal church. Two members of the new board of trustees and two of the old almost came to blows at the church yesterday morning, and Policeman Michael Conley was compelled to end the altercation.

Last November a new board of trustees was elected. David McKallip was chosen president. Last week the new board dismissed the janitor, Edward Atchison, who has served for 20 years. It is said the organization owes him $1,500 back salary. Atchison demanded his money and would not give up the keys to the church until it was forthcoming.

President McKallip and S. R. Dibert, a new member of the board, secured possession of the keys yesterday morning and, with a locksmith, went to the church to change the locks. Atchison learned they were there and sought A. W. Stewart, a harness maker at Twenty-seventh street and Penn avenue, formerly president of the board. Stewart summoned his son, James, and they went to the church with Atchison to intercept the work.

Stewart claims he was unlawfully ousted as president of the board of trustees last November. When the Stewarts and Atchison appeared on the scene McKallip picked up a screwdriver and young Stewart, thinking it was done for offensive purposes, grabbed another tool. A violent altercation took place and Policeman Conley hurried to quiet the disturbance. Conley took possession of the keys. They were sent to Director Moore yesterday afternoon. President McKallip asked the director to settle the dispute. Director Moore decided that the present board of directors should have possession of the church property, and McKallip was given the keys.

The church has been in financial trouble for sometime. McKallip and Dibert claim their election was regular and that if it had not been for them the pastor, the Rev. E. H. Lazier, could not live for all the support he received from the congregation. Atchison and Stewart represent the older element of the church. Atchison does not think it fair that he should be discharged as janitor when there was so much back salary due him. The church was flourishing some years ago, but has gone down steadily in attendance, owing to the encroachments of the mills and the great influx of foreigners.

FUEL COMPANY WINS SUIT

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., March 2.—The trial of the suit of the Red Rock Fuel Company against the Baltimore & Ohio railroad came to a sudden end today when the railroad company practically asked that the suit be withdrawn. Action was being taken to enforce a recent order by the interstate commerce commission directing railroad companies to cease discriminating against the fuel company.

It is believed the terms of agreement are that the railroad company will furnish the fuel company with connections with its plant at once, grant Fairmont coal district rate and furnish fair distribution of cars. The fuel company also retains all its legal rights. The agreement reached today is considered a victory for the independent operators.

Attorneys in Meat Packers' Investigation Have Exciting Argument About Witnesses.

CHICAGO, March 2.—The direct examination of Special Agent Durand was finished today in the packers' case, and the cross examination begun. The attorneys engaged in a sharp argument regarding the propriety of admitting as evidence the names of 300 witnesses, which, the lawyers for the packers contended, had been turned over to the department of justice by Commissioner Garfield.

The court issued an order directing that the government make a search for the names and for all correspondence relating to them.

had arrived at his decision, spoke of conditions in Chicago so far as they affected his department, and maintained that government ownership of public utilities and of private enterprises, so far as they affect the welfare of the masses, should obtain.

Mr. Patterson said that some time ago a club was formed in the Twenty-fifth ward of Chicago to discuss economics, but that it died six months afterward. This was followed by an organization to discuss matters relative to capital and labor, and rules were made prohibiting membership except when applicants were unanimously elected. Finally, he said, two Socialists were admitted, "more that they might be ridiculed and questioned than anything else," he said. "But," continued Mr. Patterson, "they always seemed to have the last word and the best of the argument, and finally the other members became infected."

This was his explanation of his first conversion to the Socialistic idea. Then he went on to say that he believed the municipal ownership idea was but skin deep; that the principle of municipal ownership was correct, but that it was not carried far enough.

He said he knew that many people would say that a man who declares himself a Socialist is a "dead one," but that he did not care. "I have never read but one work on Socialism, and, therefore, am not capable of a logical argument now," Mr. Patterson added, "but I believe in it."

PATTERSON'S CAREER.

He Is the Grandson of Former Chicago Political Leader—Saw Service in China.

NEW YORK, March 2.—(Special.)—Joseph Medill Patterson is aged 27 and a grandson of Joseph Medill, who founded the Chicago Tribune, and was a great political factor from the beginning of the civil war until his death in the nineties and left a large fortune.

Mr. Patterson is a graduate of Yale, fitting for that university at the Groton school. After his graduation he "roughed it" on ranches in Arizona and New Mexico and then took up newspaper work. He went to China in connection with the Boxer uprising and upon his return was elected to the Illinois legislature.

Although he is an ardent Republican on national issues, he threw himself heartily into the fight for municipal ownership of street railways, led by Edward F. Dunne in the Chicago mayoralty campaign last year. His father printed a statement in this connection, which attracted much attention at the time:

"Millions of dollars' worth of property is occupied at the present moment in Chicago by individuals and corporations who have not a vestige of right to it, and many of them give arrogant defiance to the law. If that is not anarchy, what is it?"

TELLS OF MORE MURDERS.

Another Confession Secured from Prisoner Arrested for Killing of Former Governor Steunenberg.

BOISE, IDAHO, March 2.—Steve Adams, arrested at Haines, Ore., in connection with the assassination of former Gov. Frank Steunenberg, has made a full confession. This confession is far more important than that made by Harry Orchard.

James McParland, a detective in charge of the investigation, in the presence of Gov. Gooding, said Adams knows far more of the workings of the "inner circle" than Orchard did and was able to give a mass of detailed information. The Adams confession gave the details of a large number of murders not referred to by Orchard.

William Richardson of Carnegie knows not the meaning of the phrase, "race suicide." Richardson yesterday accompanied his youngest daughter, Miss Renelar, and her prospective husband, Jacob Morning, to the court house while they secured their marriage license, the young lady not being yet of age. Although he was happy over the forthcoming marriage, the father expressed regret over the fact that he and his wife would soon have to give up the "baby."

COUNCILS REFUSE TO TAKE CHANCE

Increase for Police Pensions Can Be Used Only to Reduce Service to 20 Years.

TAX BILLS PASS FINALLY

Refusing to take the word of Roger O'Mara that he would consent to a reduction of the service limit period from 25 to 20 years if the city increased the police pension fund, common council last night amended the ordinance by stipulating the proposed increase of $20 for each of the 500 police employes per year be used only to retire members of the Police Pension Fund association after a service of 20 years.

Supt. McQuaide of the bureau of detectives appeared before common council to explain that the proposed increase of $20 to $30 was to enable members to retire at the end of 20 years' service instead of 25 years, which is the present term. Supt. McQuaide admitted that O'Mara could prevent a reduction of the term of service, but stated O'Mara had agreed to a reduction providing the fund was increased. William Brand then proposed an amendment which will nullify the increase if O'Mara or any other pensioner objects to reducing the service period.

Tax Bills All Passed.

After the adoption of the Brand amendment the ordinance was passed on second reading and was laid over for reprinting. Common council agreed to adjourn to next Tuesday night to pass the bill then finally. It must go back to select council for concurrence in the amendment.

The tax levy and appropriation bills were passed finally by both branches last night, select and common councils meeting simultaneously. The tax bill with the 25 per cent reduction in the water rates was passed on third reading by select by a unanimous vote and was at once messaged to common with the appropriation bills. The appropriation bills cover a total of $146,000 increases made by select for bathhouses and miscellaneous items. The ordinance making sundry appropriations, which include the bathhouse items, passed common council by a vote of 30 and 9-14 to 9, the nine votes being cast by Messrs. Bockstoce, Kalchthaler, Maslowski, Rapp, Pfannkuch, Taylor, Walls, Zeuger and McKelvey.

The public works ordinance, carrying an increase of $8,000 for a retaining wall in Mission street, Twenty-seventh ward, and $2,000 additional for the repaving of Fifty-second street, and $10,000 for repairs in the city treasurer's office, was passed by a unanimous vote.

Attack on Water Rate Reduction.

The public safety ordinance providing a $3,000 increase for three additional tenement house inspectors and $35,000 for a new engine house in the Thirty-second ward, was passed by a vote of 30 1-7 to 9, the three votes being cast by Messrs. Bole, Roenigk and Zeuger.

John F. Semmelrock and A. G. Roenigk attacked the reduction in water rates made by select. Mr. Semmelrock said the reduction would benefit only 32 wards of the city, while the 18 South Side wards would pay the present rate. He said the reduction would create a deficiency that would have to be made up by an additional tax on real estate. Mr. Roenigk said the report of Supt. Shepherd showed a deficiency of $11,000 in the water bureau last year.

Mr. Brand replied to the objections raised by Mr. Semmelrock, contending the reduction of water rates benefited the poorer classes, although it might cause a slight increase in the tax on property. He said the South Side would share in the benefit with the rest of the city, and claimed the city's contract with the Monongahela Water Company, whereby the the company was prohibited from charging a higher rate than the city, is still binding on the company. He cited the case of a South Side property owner who refused to pay the rates charged by the company when they were in excess of the city rates, and said the company had finally "come down" to the city rates.

Mayor Threatens to Veto.

Mr. Gulland said the Thirty-seventh ward, which is supplied by the Pennsylvania Water Company, is not governed by the city rate.

The tax levy ordinance, including the revised water schedule, was passed by a vote of 31 9-14 ayes to 11 noes. The negative votes were cast by Messrs. Gulland, Kalchthaler, Maslowski, Rapp, Roenigk, Semmelrock, Taylor, Wallace, Walls, Zeuger, McKelvey.

The tax levy and appropriation bills will go to Mayor Hays today for his signature, so that the small army of city employes can draw their pay. The mayor has declared he will veto the bath house items and says he will also veto the water rate reduction, if the city solicitor assures him that he possesses the legal authority.

Edward Kenna, who was elected to fill the unexpired term of John Barry, select member from the Twelfth ward, was sworn in last night. He was presented with a large floral [illegible] of American Beauty roses and white carnations.

Samuel J. Wainwright, Jr., proposes a change in the delinquent tax office different from the plan of L. H. Frederick, who wants the office abolished and the duties of delinquent tax collector added to those of the city treasurer. Mr. Wainwright introduced a bill last night to continue the delinquent tax office, but reducing the fees.

To Reduce Collector's Fees.

The amount of the fees is left blank in the bill, but Mr. Wainwright said he proposed to give the collector a fee of 2 per cent and the city 3 per cent of the amount of delinquent taxes collected by him. The collector now receives 3 per cent and the city 2 per cent. Mr. Wainwright said his plan would reduce the collector's fee about $10,000 a year.

Both branches of councils passed the ordinance authorizing the purchase of 12 acres of ground from the Robert Wightman estate for $90,000 for a new entrance to Highland park, and an ordinance vacating Twelfth street from Etna street to the Allegheny river.

Common council passed ordinances for the purchase of 16,000 water meters for $140,000 and authorized a contract for 1,000 incandescent mantle lamps for one year. The ordinance for the grading, paving and curbing of Thirty-seventh street was indefinitely postponed.

Burglars Rob East End Store.

By cutting out a section of the front window burglars secured about $15 worth of pipes from the cigar store of James Black, Penn and Highland avenues, East End, yesterday morning. It is thought the men had intended entering the store, but were frightened away.

An Objectionable Sign.

One of our foremost sign painters turned out a large sign of which he felt proud, to be used in front of Pittsburgh Carnegie hall announcing a service next Sunday evening. But the sign was refused by the hall management, because it read "To Hell and Back."

Evidently times have changed since an old Methodist Episcopal church down town was nicknamed "Brimstone Corner." In the eastern end of the state Evangelist Torry is busy shaking sinners over the flames, and the hell subject seems popular; but in Pittsburgh we are too good for a hell—even the preachers are attacking Pastor Russell's topic.

It looks as though the pastor's efforts to show that the Bible does not teach a hell of torture, but a very different one, has influenced everybody in these parts. We warn the Rev. Torry not to come here.

Really, though, is it not peculiar that Christian people generally profess faith in the torment of hell, and claim that everybody almost is in danger of it, and yet that one man who is striving to show that the doctrine is as unscriptural as it is illogical, cannot put out his sign because it hints hell, while those who claim to believe, and, who, if it be true, should be teaching it, are found afraid of the very name of hell?

We have been taught the subject of economy from childhood. We, in turn, have extolled the merits of frugality to others. A savings account, bearing 4 per cent compound interest, with the Commonwealth Trust Company, in Fourth avenue, assists and stimulates greatly in ones efforts to save systematically, by the addition of a snug profit every six months, which represents the accrued interest.

JOHN MITCHELL IGNORES DOLAN

Notification of Post-Convention Is Sent to Committee in Charge of District.

OPERATORS CALL MEETINGS

Official notification of the national post-convention of the United Mine Workers of America, to be held in Indianapolis March 15, was received here yesterday by the committee appointed by National President John Mitchell to take charge of the affairs of the district.

While it had been expected that this committee would be officially informed of the post-convention, it was thought the notice would be sent through William Dodds, who has been permitted to continue in service as secretary until April 1. Dodds, however, as well as Patrick Dolan, Uriah Bellingham and other former officials have been entirely ignored.

Dolan and Bellingham still contend that they have the right to representation at the convention and will go to Indianapolis in an effort to be seated. The election for new officers for this district will be in progress while the Indianapolis convention is on, and because of this fact electioneering has already begun among the locals in the district. Dolan's sympathizers are said to be working hard to secure the election of nominees for places on the executive board who are favorable to his administration, so that if the courts eventually rule that the election and Dolan's removal were regular the way will be paved by district legislation for Dolan to regain the presidency at the next regular election.

Operators in the bituminous fields are arranging for conferences in their districts previous to the general convention called to meet in Indianapolis on March 19. Ohio operators have agreed to meet in Cleveland next Thursday, and Indiana operators will hold a preliminary meeting on March 13. A meeting of the Illinois operators will be held next Wednesday. At these district meetings the conditions of trade will be discussed and action outlined for the convention of operators on March 19. Francis L. Robbins of the Pittsburgh Coal Company has always acted as floor leader for the operators at the joint conferences with the miners. With the prevailing belief that he favors an advance at this time, some of the independent operators are urging that if the operators again meet with the miners no leadership be conferred, but that operators act independently upon the floor of the joint conference.

Notwithstanding the recent encouragement of the belief that a strike will be averted, coal is being stored up in great quantities by all industrial corporations and in all the large cities and communities. The Central Railroad of New Jersey is said to have 2,000,000 tons of bituminous coal stored near New York and hundreds of tons are being added daily. The Lehigh Valley and Philadelphia & Reading are each said to have stored over 1,000,000 tons, while the Delaware & Hudson, Delaware, Lackawanna & Western and Ontario & Western are also said to be laying in heavy stocks.

Receive Miners' Demands.

NEW YORK, March 2.—W. H. Truesdale, president of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad, and David Wilcox, president of the Delaware & Hudson company, announced today that they have received copies of the demands of the anthracite miners' committee of seven. These copies were sent by George F. Baer, president of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company. Mr. Wilcox and Mr. Truesdale are members of the anthracite coal operators' committee of seven, and Mr. Baer is its chairman.

STAR IS ECLIPSED.

Moon Passes Between Alderbaran and the Earth.

Astronomers throughout the country were interested last night in observing the eclipse of the star, Aldebaran, the most brilliant of the Hyades group. The star disappeared at 10:55 o'clock and reappeared at 11:37 on the opposite side of the moon. This was caused by the moon passing between it and the earth.

Preparations were made to take photographs and observations at the Allegheny observatory, but owing to the cloudiness of the sky both were impossible.

Burglars Enter Cigar Store.

The cigar store of James Black, at Highland and Penn avenues, was entered by burglars yesterday morning and a small amount of cash and pipes valued at $50 taken. A motorman saw the men leaving the place as he passed on his car and informed a police captain.

Epilepsy
Fits
St. Vitus Dance

Are nerve diseases, and unless checked, lead to destruction of both mind and body. The weak, shattered nerves must have something to strengthen and build them back to health. Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is a remarkable nerve tonic and stimulant. It strengthens the nerves, relieves the nervous strain, and influences refreshing body-building sleep and rest. Persistent use seldom fails to relieve these afflictions.

"I was taken with epileptic fits; had eleven in less than 12 hours. My father sent for our family physician, but he could do very little for me, and I grew worse every day and at last they had three doctors with me, and I still got worse. My father heard of Dr. Miles' medicines and bought a bottle of Nervine and a box of Nerve and Liver Pills. I had taken only a few doses until I began to feel better. I took 12 bottles, and it cured me sound and well. It has been worth all the world to me. I recommend it wherever I go. You may use this as a life-long testimonial to the merits of your medicine, for I am enjoying the best of health, and feel that my life and health is due to this wonderful medicine." LEVY WILLIAMS.

TERRIBLE ECZEMA ON LITTLE BOY

Mouth and Eyes Covered With Crusts—Face Itched Most Fearfully—Hands Pinned Down to Prevent Scratching

ALFONSO HOHRATH.

"When my little boy was six months old, he had eczema. The sores extended so quickly over the whole body that we at once called in the doctor. We then went to another doctor, but he could not help him, and in our despair we went to a third one. Matters became so bad that he had regular holes in his cheeks, large enough to put a finger into. The food had to be given with a spoon, for his mouth was covered with crusts as thick as a finger, and whenever he opened the mouth they began to bleed and suppurate, as did also his eyes. Hands, arms, chest, and back, in short the whole body, was covered over and over. We had no rest by day or night. Whenever he was laid in his bed, we had to pin his hands down; otherwise he would scratch his face, and make an open sore. I think his face must have itched most fearfully.

"We finally thought nothing could help, and I had made up my mind to send my wife with the child to Europe, hoping that the sea air might cure him, otherwise he was to be put under good medical care there. But, Lord be blessed, matters came differently, and we soon saw a miracle. A friend of ours spoke about Cuticura. We made a trial with Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Resolvent, and within ten days or two weeks we noticed a decided improvement. Just as quickly as the sickness had appeared it also began to disappear, and within ten weeks the child was absolutely well, and his skin was smooth and white as never before." F. Hohrath, President of the C. L. Hohrath Company, Manufacturers of Silk Ribbons, 4 to 20 Rink Alley, June 5, 1905. South Bethlehem, Pa.

A Saturday Notice of Black Dress Goods

The Weight of the Crown.
By FRED M. WHITE.

Notice of this book was printed some ten days ago, and it has had a remarkable sale. The scene is laid in London and, singularly enough, the action is only of 48 hours' duration, but enough adventure happens to fill a dozen years and several books.

Worth while having on your library table, $1.08.

Because it's Saturday that does not say that women will not be interested in a little notice of some new black dress goods that have been brought out for Spring. Yes, we rather think this will be read with interest.

We wish our public to distinctly understand that this is a store that keeps up with the procession, which means that new things appear here just as soon as they are ready to be introduced to the buying public anywhere. We never play second in showing new goods. And this store now is ready to exhibit all kinds of belongings of Spring. About these black dress goods we schedule the following:

All wool French Voile, superior finish, chiffon weight—40 to 46 inches wide—50c a yard, and up to $1.50.

All wool French Serge, woven from finest Australian wool, ideal for Spring and Summer dresses—46 to 52 inch widths—75c and up to $1.25.

All wool Panama, chiffon weight, very desirable for skirts, or for dress, guaranteed for wear—38 inches, 56 inches—50c a yard and up to $1.25.

Imported black Chiffon Eolienne, woven of a combination of silk and wool—unusually fine and lustrous—42 to 48 inches wide—$1.00 a yard and up to $3.00.

Black Shadow Check Dress Goods—voile, batiste, melrose, mohair—checks that appear and disappear as the light strikes and leaves them. All wool Batiste, $1.00 a yard; all wool Melrose, $1.50 a yard; silk and wool Voile, $1.50 a yard; all silk Voile, $2.00 a yard; checked Mohairs, $1.50 a yard.

Women's Skirts for Spring.

We have a hobby regarding different departments, and in our Skirt Department we make it a point each season to have the best line of skirts to sell for $5.00 and up to $10.00. We do not allow the makers, who, by the way, are the same who make our more expensive skirts, to skimp the material or to overlook any other point necessary in the making. Look over this list:

$5.00—Skirts of pretty light and dark plaids, 9-gore flare, trimmed with straps and buttons between each gore, thus forming hip trimming.

$5.00—Skirts of light gray or a small broken plaid, or in black or blue panama, trimmed with strap to form a knee trimming.

$8.00—Skirts of light mixtures with gray stripes, 7 gores, full flare, straps on each seam and around bottom. Same can be had in black and blue panama.

$9.00—Skirts of black and blue panama, 7 gores, full flare, forming a circular effect, 3 side pleats on each side of front, 2 bands of material down front and back, and around bottom.

Your New Hat for Spring.

What do you say to a Stetson model. It is about as fashionable as anything you can crown your head with. Then there is that other consideration, the matter of durability; a Stetson hat stands for everything that is good in hat making.

It is an attractive bed, and is carefully constructed of the best material. It is as near perfection as any brass bed can be made. The head and foot are of continuous tubing with two-inch posts, ornamented with husks. The end fillings are arranged in panels. The bed is jointed with cast brass bulbs. It is highly varnished and lacquered and is fitted with ball-bearing casters. We are free to say that we have never offered a brass bed possessing so many high qualities as this one for $25.00.

Saturday, March 3, 1906.

Joseph G. Siebeneck, whose death occurred yesterday, for many years occupied a position of great influence which enabled him to participate prominently in the upbuilding and welfare of the community. As an exponent of respectable, conservative journalism he stood ever for those things which aided the progress and prosperity of Pittsburgh. His long life was consistently devoted to useful activity, which did not cease upon his retirement from business interests, and his memory will be cherished by many friends who mourn the passing of a man whose purposes and achievements were alike worthy of highest praise.

Citizens of Springfield, O., took further steps yesterday to rescue their town from the forces of evil which have brought disgrace upon the town. The law and order league is said to have received a number of accessions from among "leading business men." These are the men who should have made impossible such outrageous exhibitions of lawlessness and contempt for authority in Springfield as have shocked the entire country. Springfield is facing a still more serious situation. The spirit of anarchy must be crushed. Temporary suppression of the symptoms is not sufficient. The disease must be cured, however painful the remedy.

King Edward left London last night for a "holiday trip," but one which is expected to exert an important influence on the peace of Europe. He is to meet both President Fallières and Emperor William, and London editors express confidence in his ability to induce a modification of Germany's stubborn attitude on the Moroccan questions. Failure of Russia's attempt to bring about a satisfactory agreement between France and Germany was not unexpected. Reports of the superiority of Germany's mobilization plans for the invasion of France caused some uneasiness at Paris yesterday. History sometimes has a most unpleasant habit of repetition.

Another safe blowing by burglars who got away set the police authorities to guessing yesterday. From the signs left behind them, it is believed to have been the work of novices. Every successful robbery by professionals fills youthful amateurs with a desire to emulate the crime. Often the wish does not extend to action, and when it does the amateurs frequently become startled at their own boldness and flee without securing all the available spoils. A pair of cracksmen of wide notoriety are said to be operating in Pittsburgh and some recent "jobs" are attributed to their skill. Pittsburgh should be made so hot for them as to induce speedy migration to Chicago.

Ex-Congressman Francis Burton Harrison of New York has risen far above party rancor and fault-finding in giving a fair view of the Panama canal project. He is competent to speak because he spent six weeks in Central America and one whole week along the right of way of the canal. After careful examinations of the work he believes the canal is being dug "honestly, efficiently and with earnestness and intelligence." This evidence, coming as it does from one not in accord with the Republican administration, is vastly more worthy of credence than the snapshots of a writer who spent but a few hours in Panama, and claimed to know all about canal construction.

Interesting figures are contained in the annual report of the Pennsylvania railroad and lines west of Pittsburgh showing large increases in the number of passengers and amount of freight carried and in the net earnings over the preceding year. During 1905 the net earnings of all Pennsylvania lines were $73,969,249 34, an increase of $8,266,289 37. The gain in number of passengers carried was 5,668,005, while 48,191,297 more tons of freight were moved. Numerous important improvements, under way or decided [illegible] the completion of the double-track road between Pittsburgh and Philadelphia and New York, entirely independent of the four-track road, with the exception of two short sections. The increase in the tonnage between Pittsburgh and New York during the last five years was 40 per cent.

Welcome Visitors.

This morning Pittsburgh will extend the hand of welcome to members of the congressional committee who come to investigate the city's need for a new postoffice building which shall be commensurate with the size and importance of the community. If there are any doubting Thomases on the committee, the object lessons which their hosts are prepared to present should result in their speedy conversion. It has been wisely planned to afford the visitors ample opportunity for inspecting the mighty industries of the Greater Pittsburgh, to be followed by a look at various proposed sites for the new structure, and then the present inadequate postoffice building will come in for its share of attention. The banquet in the evening will form a pleasing close to the day's round of activities, combining pleasure with business.

To Congressman Dalzell has been entrusted the duty of setting forth the reasons why Pittsburgh is entitled to a loosening of the federal purse-strings. With the facts and figures bearing on the matter interested Pittsburghers are familiair, but their presentation in a new and convincing manner is assured. Impressed with the validity of Pittsburgh's claims, and the importance of their early settlement, members of the congressional committee decided yesterday not to divide their forces in order to pay a simultaneous visit to Boston, but to concentrate on Pittsburgh. They are certain not only of a cordial reception and an enjoyable time, but of returning to the capital with a new idea of Pittsburgh's greatness and its legitimate need for a spacious building in which to conduct its large and rapidly increasing postal business.

Revival of Archery.

That an attempt is to be made to revive the good old sport of archery in this country during the coming outdoor season is good news. New York dealers in sporting goods are already laying in supplies of bows and arrows and calling the attention of patrons to "the latest fad." By June, at the latest, it is predicted, all persons who follow the fashion will be shooting at targets, and the man who now delights in describing his exploits on the links will be telling his friends how many bullseyes stand to his credit. Golf enthusiasts, in the past, have not been entirely innocent of pulling the long bow, but now they will discard the metaphorical practice for the actual. The awkwardness of the average novice who essays archery has been illustrated during the week at the Sportsman's show in Madison Square Garden, New York. Side by side were a rifle range and one for bows and arrows, the latter in charge of two Indian experts, Jim Long Feather and Whip-Poor-Will. Four out of five spectators who tried the rifle met with some success, but the clumsiness of those who experimented with the bow was amusing. It was a sight to make Robin Hood weep. Bystanders were in more danger than the targets.

Archery is an excellent pastime from many points of view. It is health-promoting without being too strenuous. It teaches steadiness of nerve. It pleasantly diverts the mind, and the element of competition is just sufficient to be exhilarating. It can be played by oneself or with any number of companions. A romantic association clings to archery which few other pastimes can boast. The long bow has decided the fate of many a nation. A pretty fancy characterizes it as Cupid's favorite weapon. Old Roger Ascham, in the sixteenth century, gave directions to archers which are not out-of-date today. Young archers, he says, often fall into the error of fixing the eye on the end of the arrow, instead of on the mark. To obviate this fault he advises them to shoot in the dark, by night, at lights set up at proper distances. We cannot have too many outdoor sports, especially those in which girls and women may participate. The people are spending more time in the open air each year, which is a sign of great encouragement for the health of the nation.

Italian Immigration.

The Gazette some days ago called attention to the experiment on an Arkansas plantation, where Italians were employed as laborers instead of negroes. It was pointed out that the Italians were doing better than the negro employes; that they were easier to handle and more thrifty. There is no question that the largest number of immigrants comes from Italy, and so long as they prove themselves to be thrifty and peaceable, they are welcome. What the United States desires is the dependable and lawabiding class of Europe, not the disturbing and transient element of the lowest grade of European citizenship. For them, it is to be hoped, the bars will ever be up.

Formerly the largest immigration came from Germany, and all of them were of the most desirable class. According to our representatives abroad, however, all has been changed in favor of Italy. During the latter part of the last century Germany sent as many as 200,000 emigrants to this country in a single year. Today less than one-tenth of that number seek our shores. The explanation is found in the fact that development of German industries at home has turned the tide of emigration to the cities of the German empire, where remunerative employment is found. How long this will last remains to be seen, because Germany is an already overcrowded nation.

With Italy it is different, for the reason that there is small hope of her ever becoming an industrial nation like England and Germany. Italy has nothing to keep her industrious sons at home, and that is why they are flocking to the United States. According to reports furnished by Consul Harris of Chemnitz, more than 700,000 emigrants departed from Italy in 1905. This is a tremendous outpouring for such a country as Italy. The United States does not receive all of this population, most of it going to South America. What we are getting, nevertheless, is the best, because the majority are farmers. With their small needs and high degree of agricultural efficiency they cannot help but make good farmers. Another virtue this class has is, that as soon as they are comfortably established the desire to live well begins to assert itself, which is a commendable thing in this country. Of this class of immigrants the United States cannot have too many.

The Business Situation.

The action of the bituminous coal operators and miners in setting a date for reconvening the interstate conference at Indianapolis, with the object of reaching an agreement that will avert a strike next month, had a favorable effect upon business sentiment this week. The action was in deference to the request of President Roosevelt, and while it does not absolutely assure a settlement, the disastrous consequences of a strike, as pointed out in the President's letter and as supplemented by expressions from the managers of some of the largest industrial corporations in the country, have tended to crystallize public sentiment on the subject. Representatives of both miners and operators will, therefore, go into this second conference more strongly impressed than ever that public sentiment will be thrown to the side which will go the farther toward averting disturbance to present prosperous business conditions.

Ordinarily the announcement that renewed efforts would be made to avert a strike in the coal trade would have found immediate response in the stock market. The latter, however, has been entirely lacking in buoyancy, and during the week the average price of stocks declined to the lowest of the year. The partial subsidence of speculation and the decline in market values have no connection with present business conditions or future prospects.

The comparative dullness in Wall street is due to the retirement of a majority of the active leaders of the recent "bull" campaign for a much-needed rest. The decline in values is due partly to the withdrawal of artificial stimulant supplied by the large professional cliques, and partly to the rise in money rates. During the week call loans advanced to 8 per cent and time loans were firmer. This condition of the money market is not confined to Wall street, and it is not due to manipulation. The minimum rate of discount of the Bank of England is 4 per cent, as compared with 2½ per cent at the corresponding date a year ago, and the European money markets are firmer than at this season in former years.

There was no interruption to general business throughout this country on account of severe weather the past winter, and, therefore, the usual congestion of money in New York did not occur this year. The money remained in the interior, where it found full employment. This statement is proved by official figures. The loans of the associated banks of New York are $87,000,000 smaller than at the same date a year ago, while the loans of the national banks of the country at the date of their latest reports were $342,000,000 larger than at the same time last year. There is nothing disturbing in this. On the contrary, the figures show that the demands of general business are so large that the supply of funds remaining for speculation has been reduced. When indications point to higher rates for borrowed money than the yield on stocks, then the price of the latter declines until a parity is established. This is the explanation for the declining tendency in stock market values.

A feature of the commodity markets has been the decline in wheat, which is now 35 cents a bushel below the price quoted for the May option in the Chicago market a year ago. Absence of damage to the winter wheat crop and heavy shipments by foreign competitors of the American farmer are responsible for the decline. Other commodity values have remained steady to firm.

That New York preacher's anecdote of 24 young women who drank 37 bottles of champagne and smoked seven dozen cigarets is having a wide circulation among the credulous who forget that figures can lie.

When a delegation of determined women suffragists called on the British premier he sent down word that he was sick in bed. Desperate emergencies require desperate measures.

Answered Truthfully.

The detective was fond of enumerating the good points in human nature. "At any rate, women are truthful," he said, solemnly. "I had that fact impressed on me recently, when a woman's husband disappeared and I was called in to try to find him. He had been missing three days when I arrived. Of course, I first of all questioned his wife. The first thing I asked was:

"'What were the last words your husband said to you before he disappeared?'

"She blushed deeply as she answered truthfully:

"'His very last words were: "Oh, for goodness sake, shut up!" '"—Tit Bits.

There's an old negro here in Washington who has attracted much attention on account of his grand manners. He is considered to be the original black-man-with-a-bundle, for he was always toting somebody's wash around, and he's never porely, "thank de Lord."

Dr. J. Breckenridge Bayne came across him yesterday on Eighteenth street, and, true to his custom, the aged negro had his bundle of clothes with him.

"Good morning, sah," responded the negro, taking off his cap.

"I don't suppose you mind the cold weather?"

"No, sah. I'se mighty fon' ob it—it lightens de burden ob ma bundle."

"Carrying that package doesn't seem to be much of an effort—you're a very active man."

"True, sah, an' as long as old George has his legs he'll continue to be so."

The old fellow mopped his brow with a red bandanna, drew out his well used pipe, filled it, and struck a match.

"So you're name is George—George what?"

"George Washington, sah."

"Well, that's a very illustrious name you have; it is known and respected everywhere."

"I recon, sah—it ought ter be. I'se been in these heah parts since de wah!"—Washington Post.

Saturday Night Eggs.

At a recent Saturday night meeting of John D. Rockefeller, Jr.'s Bible class Prof. F. K. Wickes of Syracuse, who is historian general of the Sons of the American Revolution, told this story to illustrate a point:

A woman went to her grocer and bought a dozen eggs. As the grocer was wrapping them up, the woman said: "Are you sure these eggs are perfectly fresh?"

"Yes, indeed," replied the grocer. "They are our very best Saturday night eggs."

"Why do you call them that?" asked the customer, somewhat puzzled.

"Because," replied the grocer, "they've been trying all week to be good."—New York Sun.

The Explanation.

"Speaking of strange and unaccountable experiences," remarked the man with the bulbous nose, "I am reminded of one that happened to a friend of mine in the summer of '93, while he was at the Columbian exposition. He was in the Fine Arts building, looking at the picture they called 'Breaking Home Ties,' when he heard a voice behind him say distinctly, 'That's what is happening at our house, over on the West Side.' He turned and looked to see who it was that spoke, and there was nobody near him."

"Is that all?" asked the man with the fishy eye.

"No, the strangest part of it is to come. When he went home in the evening he found that his youngest brother had eloped with the hired girl and gone to St. Louis. It had taken place, too, at the exact moment when he heard the voice. How do you explain that, I'd like to know? Was it telepathy, or what was it?

"H'mph? Who tells that story?"

"The man himself—Ike Stringham."

"Oh, Stringham tells it, does he? Why, you gourdhead, that's the explanation."—Chicago Tribune.

Quite Realistic.

The youngsters had been consigned to the nursery, and strict injunctions had been laid upon them to "play a nice quiet game." In a few moments, however, sounds as of a thunder storm, with a dash of boiler factory, issued from the room, and mother rushed up. "Mercy on us, children!" she exclaimed. "Whatever are you doing? You must not make such a terrible noise." "But, mamma," exclaimed one of the darlings, "we are only playing theater."

"Theater?"

"Yes, this scene is the storm at sea, and all of us except Tommy are shipwrecked people calling for help."

Mamma's attention was then directed to Tommy, who crouched in a corner, emitting doleful howls.

"And what is Tommy doing?" she asked.

"Tommy is the scenery."

"The scenery?"

"Yes, he is the ocean shrieking in the teeth of the storm."—Answers.

A Safe Bet.

Morris Woods, the national skating champion, was discussing an absurd bet.

"The men who had made the bet," he said, "had as little nerve as a farmer my father used to tell about.

"This farmer, after a crop-selling trip to the city, found himself, with his wallet full of money, at the race track.

"The betting interested him a great deal. The enormous odds were almost incredible to his inexperienced mind. The idea of betting a dollar on a horse, and, if the horse won, getting $50 or $60 in return for it! There must certainly be some mistake, or some swindle.

"After awhile the farmer walked up to a bookmaker and said:

"'Look-a-here, friend, if that thar hoss Socks wins, an' I bet a dollar on it, do ye mean ter say ye gimme me sixty?'

"'That's what I do,' replied the bookmaker. 'I do that and more. It's a sixty to one shot, and you get, if Socks wins, sixty dollars and your own original dollar back again besides.'

"Then I'll take a chanst,' said the farmer firmly, handing out a silver dollar. 'But if I win, I'll be satisfied with the even sixty. Ye needn't give me my dollar back unless I lose.'"—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Quiet Observations on Ways of the World

Do Ladies Drink, and Smoke, and Swear? By ERASMUS WILSON.

One of the questions that seem to be agitating the public mind just now, or at least that part of it represented by some of the big dailies, is: Do ladies drink, smoke and swear?

This is not an altogether new question, but it was freshened up the other day by the Rev. Madison C. Peters, one of the center-of-the-stage preachers, who publicly declared, averred and proclaimed that on a recent occasion 24 young women, quite young, drank, or guzzled, 37 bottles of champagne, and smoked seven dozens of cigarets. As nine out of the bunch did not smoke the seven dozen "coffin nails" must have been consumed by the remaining dozen and a quarter sweet revelers.

You may have seen Dr. Peters' name attached to syndicate stuff in Sunday papers, and good stuff it is, for he always has something to say, and being a bluff, honest Pennsylvania Dutchman, intellectual, cultured and very sociable, he talks right out—"right out in meetin'," as they used to say.

The good doctor doesn't say that he witnessed this phenomenal drinking and smoking bout, so there is a possibility, if not a probability, that somebody has stuffed him, for there are some temperance folk whose zeal leads them to magnify mole hills into mountains more or less immense.

Anyway, he is getting a fine lot of advertising, and you may depend upon it that he will turn it to good account.

* * *

That ladies do drink wine at dinners, both private and public, none will deny, for it is the regular thing. Nor can it be denied that some exceed the limits of propriety, as well as of temperance, yet these are the exception to the rule.

It must be remembered that New York is a European as well as an American city. Besides, it never was a puritan stronghold. And then, nearly everybody who is anybody spends more or less time abroad where they imbibe foreign notions, and contract habits peculiar to foreign people.

There are not less than one million Jews in this city, and it is well known that they control the money, and money is a powerful controlling influence, not only in business but in politics—in everything, in fact.

It is not surprising, therefore, that a majority of the people here are so much addicted to foreign ways. Nor should it be surprising that some should go to extremes in the matter of drinking wine and smoking. But if some do exceed the limit of propriety, that will not justify the publication of exaggerated stories.

No doubt there are wine rooms here where men and women meet to drink and carouse, but such as these do not belong to the better social classes.

Nor are such places forced upon your attention, nor do such people thrust themselves upon you. To find them you must seek them.

* * *

When you have seen New York from the right side you can hardly help wondering that it is not worse than it is, for certainly it is one of the busiest places on earth. From early morning until late at night its streets and avenues are teeming with people, all on pleasure or business bent.

The trouble is that so many of those who come from other cities and towns are bent on seeing New York from the wrong side; consequently their impressions are none of the best.

It is said that many of those who come here to buy, or sell, devote themselves to business during the day, and to sight-seeing during the night. By sight-seeing they mean seeing the immoral side of city life, and indulging in things debasing rather than elevating.

To the corrupt, and to those who have a taste, or feeling, for things corrupt, New York is, no doubt, a very corrupt place, but not so to those who prefer good things, beautiful things, and the society of respectable, refined people.

The outside world hears only of the bad things done here, consequently it is prone to believe that the city is altogether bad, that the people are reckless, Godless and inhuman, and that good people who come here are quickly swallowed up in a maelstrom of vice.

The various tendencies are strong, no doubt, so that it is an unsafe place for weaklings, but for those who have plenty of common sense, and a reasonable amount of moral stamina, there is no better place.

New York, March 1, 1906.

Notes About People and Events in Which Pittsburghers Are Interested.

"Founders' Day," the twenty-fourth anniversity of the Nu Sigma Nu Greek letter fraternity of the University of Michigan, was celebrated last night by a banquet at the Fort Pitt hotel by the Delta chapter of the Western University of Pennsylvania. Covers were laid for 50 guests and Dr. C. B. Nancrede of Alpha chapter, Ann Arbor, Mich., was the guest of honor. During the evening Dr. Nancrede responded to the toast, "Alpha Chapter," in which he reviewed the progress of the Greek letter societies since their start 24 years ago. Dr. Nancrede is one of the most distinguished surgeons in the United States, having served through the Spanish-American war as surgeon general of volunteers. He is now surgeon instructor of the University of Michigan and Dartmouth college. The toastmaster, Dr. John K. Sterrett, '91, proposed the toasts, which were responded to as follows: "Medical Education," Dr. Chris Lange, dean of the Western University of Pennsylvania; "Early Delta," Dr. Frank Todd, '81; "Other Chapters," Dr. Walter F. Donaldson; "Alumni Members," Dr. Edward Stieren, '98; "Active Delta," Frank P. Righter, '07, of the undergraduates. The committee of arrangements consisted of Dr. John K. Sterrett, Dr. Edward Stieren, Dr. Finley K. Whitfield, Robert Carson Butz, Thomas G. Jenney and David D. Kennedy.

Anent Postoffice Facilities.

Congressman James Francis Burke, sponsor of the Pittsburgh post office appropriation, was talking in the Colonial hotel last night about the inadequate facilities of the local postoffice and declared it reminded him of a very small country post office in Washington county. There had been many complaints about delays in giving out the arriving mail, and one day an angry citizen stumped into the little country store and addressed the postmaster, a henpecked little man:

"See here, a letter arrived for me this morning. I want it."

"Ye'll hev t' wait a hour. I'm mighty busy with the mail."

"Nonsense!" stormed the citizen. "You don't receive more than 20 letters a day."

"Yaas; but 'bout 15 o' them is postal cards!"

"What has that got to do with it?"

"Waal, my wife ain't much on book larnin' an' it takes her plum two hours to read the backs o' them postal cards and find out all the news o' th' neighbors. Sah! Nancy is spellin' 'em out now an' th' gossip is important 'cause she's goin' t' a sewin' bee tonight! Come back in 'bout an hour, will ye?"

A Nation of Suicides.

J. G. Thompson who registered from Kobe, Japan, at the Anderson, has spent the week here in purchasing steel structural work for the oriental corporation he represents, and departed for Chicago on an evening train last night to make other contracts. Mr. Thompson, who is an Englishman of the empire-builder type, is reputed to be one of the few occidentals that are a match for the Japanese in shrewdness.

"Just after the close of the Japanese war," said Mr. Thompson in the lobby of the Anderson, "I was commissioned to visit a practically unknown nation in northeastern Siberia, the nearest English rendering of whose name would be 'Chuckchee.' My mission was to arrange for the importation of reindeer into a northern province of Japan, as natives had already feared the famine that is now raging in that section.

"The Chuckchees are a nation of suicides, the psychology of which I invite scientists to study. At the slightest disappointment, particularly ill health, a Chuckchee agrees in family council to commit suicide, and delegates his nearest relative, wife, or favorite son to the horrible task of strangling him, which is performed with oriental stolidity.

"In every Chuckchee household hangs a sort of overcoat with a cowl that can be drawn over the face. It corresponds to our hangman's cap and hides the facial contortions of the dying. In some families of high caste it is a point of family honor for the eldest son to do away with himself in this manner. On his failure to do so he is degraded as a coward.

"Naturally this sort of thing would result in the extinction were not a strange anomaly presented. The race is a happy, healthy, moral people and therefore not victims to race suicide."

Ohio's Liquor Tax Fight.

There seems to be a desperate effort to kill the $1,000 Dow law tax in committee. That should not be permitted. It was referred to the finance committee to ascertain the effect of the law on the revenues. They ought to be satisfied on that point. There is every good reason to believe the revenue would be increased by the $1,000 tax. State Auditor Guilbert is of the opinion. So is nearly everybody. It is time for that committee to report, and if they keep up the appearance of a purpose to kill the bill by inaction, it should be taken from them and referred to the temperance committee, to see what they can do with it.—Ohio State Journal.

Some Dense Ignorance.

A benighted paper in Southeast Missouri says people would not use the Mississippi river no matter how much the channel is improved. Has that editor ever heard of the 20-foot channel at the Soo, where a commerce three times as large as that passing through the Suez canal is accommodated? Before the Soo channel was deepened the business there was not 1 per cent of what it is now.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Greatest Need of the Hour.

President Roosevelt in his letter to Mr. Mitchell says: "You in this business (coal mining) have enjoyed a great industrial peace for many years." With many labor agitators that is reason enough for and all that is needed to call a strike. The greatest need of the hour is for a labor organization that can stand prosperity, know when doing well is good enough and will not try to imitate the commercial trusts and monopolists in insisting on too much.—Denver Republican.

THE NORTHERN LIGHTS.

All scentless in the fields of snow
The valley mists hang deep below,
No earthly damps attaint the air,
And all is pure and white and fair.

No stir betrays the wandering breeze,
No whisper from the frozen trees;
They muster still and stark and pale,
A phantom host in silver mail.

And silver-studded over all
Is drawn night's velvet purple pall,
And all is peace; the fitful breath
Seems sacrilege in this land of death

When far athwart the Northern Pole
The rainbow-tinted streamers roll,
The lonagered wizard of the North
Has flung its fiery challenge forth.

And, where across the frozen plain
Lies the grim harvest of the slain,
His icy searchlights coldly sweep
The approaches to his virgin keep.

So are there latitudes too high
In realms of cold philosophy,
And barren wastes, that cannot give
The bread whereby a man may live.

WARD CHAIRMEN TAKE UP BURDEN

City Chairman Leslie Passes the County Patronage Proposition Over to Them.

STRENUOUS LIFE FOR SHENKEL

The distribution of patronage in the court house is causing some of the Republican organization leaders a great deal of trouble. City Chairman M. G. Leslie last night sought to shift the burden from his shoulders to those of the ward chairmen. He called them into a secret conference at the Grant street headquarters and explained how difficult it is to fit several thousand applicants into a couple of hundred places, especially when most of the present employes are not likely to be disturbed.

Commissioner Campbell, Coroner Armstrong and Controller Booth were invited to the conference. Chairman Leslie had secured a list of all of the county employes. Each ward chairman was given the names of the men from his ward. He was told to consult with his committee and if a change is desired, Leslie will accompany the ward chairman to the official who has the authority to make the appointment.

Even if the ward chairmen do decide to take a scalp, the county official will have to be satisfied. Many of the positions in the court house are held by Republicans who are rendering satisfactory service. It is not probable that a very large percentage of changes will be made. The three officials present last night did not agree to anything aside from promising a hearing to all who go in search of jobs.

Rivalry Among Leaders.

There has been some keen rivalry between Leslie and leaders outside of Pittsburgh for patronage. Last night the city chairman spoke on the "rapacity" of some of the outside leaders. Leslie wants half of the appointments in the court house to go to Pittsburghers. While there is a disposition to accept this apportionment, some other suggestions of Leslie have not been accepted. The prothonotary, clerk of courts, treasurer, one commissioner, register and recorder, live outside of Pittsburgh. The salary of each is $6,000 a year. The city chairman suggested that each of these places should be considered equal to five appointments. Had this proposition been accepted, Allegheny would have lost five, and the country districts 25 appointments. Leslie also wanted the entire force in the coroner's office exempted, as Coroner Armstrong lives in Pittsburgh. There is considerable discussion among the Alleghenians about requesting Recorder Fairman to confine all of his appointees to Republicans from the north side of the river.

While the meeting was a secret one and none except ward chairmen were invited, many place hunters learned of the gathering. A score of them gathered in front of headquarters, but "Ajax" Jones refused to admit them. He said his orders were to permit none but ward chairmen to enter. Few of the chairmen knew why they had been summoned to headquarters, and most of them could not see the necessity of the meeting after it was over.

Brennen Wants Blood.

Democratic City Chairman W. J. Brennen is much exercised about the removal of Democrats from court house positions. He promises to suggest to Mayor-elect Guthrie that five Republicans in the city service should be discharged for every Democrat who has been separated from the county payroll. He must have gotten Director Harry Moore to start the movement. Police Sergeant William Wallace, who refused to work for Guthrie, was yesterday reduced in rank and assigned to duty on one of the wagons at No. 1 station. W. D. Moore is promoted to the position of sergeant.

Representative John Shenkel is the Republican leader of the Thirty-fourth ward. Just now he finds that it requires considerable physical force to hold down the leadership. At the last election there was a bitter contest for councilmen. It was testified before the official returning board that opponents of the Shenkel organization resorted to irregular methods to win in the councilmanic election. There is an extremely ugly feeling existing between the followers of Shenkel and those of Select Councilman Hogue. Early in the week Policeman Patrick Manion, an adherent of Hogue, tried to beat up Alderman Charles C. McGovern, the Republican ward chairman.

Strenuous Life for Shenkel.

Wednesday night Representative Shenkel dropped into a cafe near his home to get a lunch. While eating, Officer Manion and his brother entered. "Manion came up to me," said Shenkel, "and said, 'Good evening, John.' Just as I replied to the salutation he made some remark about McGovern and tried to hit me in the face. I dodged the blow. The next instant the brother was trying to get me by the throat. I got to my feet, and in a very short time my adversaries were helped out of the place. Life in the ward promises to be very strenuous for some time to come. While I love liberty as well as any man, I propose to defend myself in a different manner in the future. The seat of Hogue in councils will probably be contested and criminal prosecutions will be instituted against the election board that we charge made a false count."

James F. Woodward of McKeesport yesterday made a formal announcement of his candidacy for re-election to the legislature from the Tenth representative district. Mr. Woodward said he was ambitious to have one more term and believed he was entitled to it. He says he will have the support of all the Republican factions in McKeesport.

Thomas Leggate, T. D. McCloskey, E. S. Eggers, John R. Leggate and John W. Kinnear have patented the name of Good Government party for use in the county at the coming county election in November.

Miss Elizabeth Spear of Wilkinsburg was yesterday reinstated as a clerk in the office of Recorder Fairman. Through a mistake she was dismissed from the service a few days ago.

W. U. P. TRUSTEES WANT ETHICS ON GRIDIRON

Declare Themselves for Reform in Football and Arrange for Granting Degrees.

The board of trustees of the Western University of Pennsylvania, in regular spring session, yesterday afternoon adopted a new plan for the management of athletics which is said to be in harmony with the movement among eastern colleges pointing to reform in football. A statement issued after the meeting declares that: "It is well known that the chancellor is an ardent advocate of this popular game, but he desires that the athletics of the university shall be placed above all reproach. It is confidently expected that the university will continue to take a prominent place in the athletics of this region, and that it will stand for ethics on the gridiron and on the diamond, of the same sort as are taught in the class room."

The observatory committee reported that the new observatory is nearly completed and that arrangements have been completed for laying the remains of Prof. James E. Keeler beneath the Keeler memorial reflecting telescope. The ceremony will take place about April 1. A resolution of sorrow over the death of Prof. S. P. Langley was passed.

The basis upon which graduate degrees will hereafter be granted by the university was determined, and rules providing that no masters' or doctors' degrees shall be given except when earned by resident study in the departments of the university were adopted. Work equivalent to one year shall be required for the master's degree and work equivalent to three years is required for the doctor's degree. Two additions to the faculty were provided for, one in the department of ofology and one in the department of history and economics. Prof. Hugh A. Hackett was elected to fill the former and the other will be elected at the June meeting of the board.

Rainfall Effects a Night of Quietness in Springfield—Many Rioters Are Fined.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

SPRINGFIELD, O., March 2.—A steady downpour of rain has been falling here tonight, and aside from this quiet prevails following the two preceding nights of rioting and incendiary fires. The troops who are still on duty were drenched by tonight's rainfall. Police court was in continuous session during the day, and a number of rioters were fined. Martin Davis, the wounded brakeman, was still alive tonight.

Jacob Koch was arrested early today for an assault on Private Arthur Ancil of Company I of Xenia last night. Koch was later taken before the wounded soldier, who identified him as his assailant.

At noon Mayor Todd issued a statement that the troops now on duty would not be dismissed before Sunday. There were no troops on duty this morning as they were given an opportunity to get rested for tonight.

ELBERT RETURNS TO SERVE OUT LONG SENTENCE

John Elbert, who was brought back from Chicago by Detective Cole, charged with being an escaped convict, was taken before Judge Shafer yesterday morning and sentenced to serve two years and one month in the Western penitentiary, his original sentence, less six months, which he served before making his escape. Elbert, in 1897, was sentenced for seven years. He escaped from Dixmont after serving two years. Elbert cut three officers in the Penn avenue police station with a razor. After he was in the penitentiary two years he shammed insanity and was sent to Dixmont, from where he escaped and went to Chicago. He was free for almost seven years.

Thoburn of Allegheny, his subject being "Prayer—Its Value and Use to the Epworthian."

Little Girls in "The Prince Chap."

"The Prince Chap," which comes to the Belasco theater next week with Mr. Cyril Scott in the title role, is the play that has caused such a sensation in New York on account of the little girls that have so much prominence in the production. As the heroine of the play, Claudia, must be before the audience at several ages of her life, it is necessary that the part be portrayed by three different girls.

Trouble With Fair Dentist.

Because her patient, P. Stauffer, complained of work done on his teeth, he says, Dr. Sadie Butterworth, a Smithfield street dentist, struck him in the face with her cap. Stauffer immediately went before Alderman John Groetzinger and had her arrested on a charge of assault and battery.

WHAT JOY THEY BRING TO EVERY HOME

as with joyous hearts and smiling faces they romp and play—when in health—and how conducive to health the games in which they indulge, the outdoor life they enjoy, the cleanly, regular habits they should be taught to form and the wholesome diet of which they should partake. How tenderly their health should be preserved, not by constant medication, but by careful avoidance of every medicine of an injurious or objectionable nature, and if at any time a remedial agent is required, to assist nature, only those of known excellence should be used; remedies which are pure and wholesome and truly beneficial in effect, like the pleasant laxative remedy, Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. Syrup of Figs has come into general favor in many millions of well informed families, whose estimate of its quality and excellence is based upon personal knowledge and use.

Syrup of Figs has also met with the approval of physicians generally, because they know it is wholesome, simple and gentle in its action. We inform all reputable physicians as to the medicinal principles of Syrup of Figs, obtained, by an original method, from certain plants known to them to act most beneficially and presented in an agreeable syrup in which the wholesome Californian blue figs are used to promote the pleasant taste; therefore it is not a secret remedy and hence we are free to refer to all well informed physicians, who do not approve of patent medicines and never favor indiscriminate self-medication.

Please to remember and teach your children also that the genuine Syrup of Figs always has the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—plainly printed on the front of every package and that it is for sale in bottles of one size only. If any dealer offers any other than the regular Fifty cent size, or having printed thereon the name of any other company, do not accept it. If you fail to get the genuine you will not get its beneficial effects. Every family should always have a bottle on hand, as it is equally beneficial for the parents and the children, whenever a laxative remedy is required.

TRIES TO STIFLE COMPETITION

This Is the Charge Tibby Glass Co. Makes Against Pennsylvania Railroad.

LOSES CREDIT; STARTS SUIT

Serious charges are made against the Pennsylvania Railroad Company by the Tibby Glass Company in a suit to prevent the seizure of its property by the railroad. To thwart and discourage the construction of competing lines and to prevent competition with it by means of transportation on the improved Allegheny River are among them. The suit was instituted some time ago, but an amendment to the plaintiff's bill was permitted to be filed yesterday.

In the amendment the glass company sets forth that the land sought by the railroad has become highly valuable by reason of the system of locks and dams now being constructed in the Allegheny river by the United States government, and that the appropriation of so large a portion of the plaintiff's land is not required by the necessity of the Western Pennsylvania railroad; that it exercised its rights of eminent domain many years ago in choosing its right of way, and that the present taking is not such as comes within the meaning of the acts of assembly giving the defendant the right of eminent domain.

Sherman Charges Conspiracy.

Claiming the defendants caused him to be blacklisted as the result of a conspiracy he alleges they entered into, George W. Sherman demands $25,000 damages in a suit he filed against William Hays, B. F. Lee, Hays Coal and Supply Company, B. F. Lee Company and the Retail Lumber and Builders' Supply Dealers Credit Association of Western Pennsylvania. The plaintiff sets forth that he is a contractor, and says the defendants conspired to damage him, to prevent him from purchasing his necessary materials by having him blacklisted.

Statements were filed by H. C. Frick, Andrew W. Mellon and Richard B. Mellon, partners as A. W. Overholt and Company, against the Indemnity Fire Insurance Company of New York, and the Connecticut Fire Insurance Company of Hartford, Conn. The suits were filed some time ago. The plaintiffs sue each of the defendant companies for $2,500, the amount of a policy issued on their warehouse in Bradford, Fayette county. It is set forth in the statements that on March 18, 1905, the defendants issued the policies on 14,067 barrels of whisky in the Broadford warehouse.

Loss by Fire Was $169,776 32.

On November 19, 1905, the warehouse and its contents were destroyed by fire. The plaintiffs carried, in different companies, insurance amounting to $167,500. They assert that their loss by the fire was $169,776.32, and they sue for the full amount of the policies issued by the defendant companies.

The motion for a new trial in the divorce case of May Weedon against H. H. Weedon was argued. The attorneys for Weedon claimed that the verdict was against the charge of the court and the weight of the evidence. On the charge of infidelity Weedon's attorneys held that it was possible for the jury to have inferred that the alleged act had been committed after the suit was entered. Judge Kennedy did not agree with this but said he had thought of sending the jury out to fix a time for the alleged intimacy.

For Mrs. Weedon the attorneys maintained that the charge was proper and the testimony sufficient. The court took the papers.

Sues Insurance Company.

Mrs. Elizabeth McClelland, through Attorneys John A. Metz and Joseph A. McQuaide, has sued the Locomotive Engineers Mutual Life and Accident association for $1,500, the amount of a policy on her husband's life. McClelland was hurt on the Union railroad on February 25, 1905, and died on March 1, 1905.

Harry Moore and others, intervening as plaintiffs in the suit against the Chartiers Valley Water Company, the South Pittsburgh Water Company and others, have taken an appeal to the supreme court. The suit is an action to prevent the South Pittsburgh company from taking over the properties of the Chartiers Valley company. Common pleas court No. 4 dismissed the original bill and it is from this action that the appeal is taken.

Judge Buffington, in the United States circuit court, handed down an opinion in the equity suit of the Hygeia Distilled Water Company of New York against the Consolidated Ice Company of Pittsburgh to enjoin them from using the trade mark "Hygeia" on bottled water, granting a permanent injunction, because it is a mythological name of the goddess of health and was first used by the New York company in 1885.

Libels in divorce, all alleging indelity, were filed as follows: Dora Fortney vs. Oliver C. Fortney; G. J. Becker vs. Harriett Becker; Pasquale Carlino vs. Antonieta Carlino.

ALLEGED EMBEZZLER CAUGHT

Samuel A. Wallace, Wanted in Vandergrift, Is Arrested in Chicago.

Former Superintendent Samuel A. Wallace of the Vandergrift plant of the United Engineering and Foundry Company is under arrest at Chicago on a charge of embezzlement. Isaac W. Frank, president of the company, with offices in the Farmers National bank building, says that Wallace's peculations amount to about $20,000, and the authorities of Westmoreland county are preparing requisition papers to bring him to that county for trial.

President Frank refuses to discuss the methods employed by Wallace to secure the money. Wallace, it is alleged, deserted his wife when he fled from this vicinity about six months ago. She is said to have aided the authorities in their search for him. Wallace was stopping at the Briggs house under the name of Samuel Williams. Wallace is said to have lost his money in stock speculation, and it is said others were implicated with him.

BRADY DEFIES CRITICS.

Steps Before Audience in New York Theater Between Acts and Makes Sensational Statement.

NEW YORK, March 2.—(Special.)—Before a large audience, which attended the performance of "The Redskin" at the Liberty theater tonight, a sensational speech was made at the end of the second act by William A. Brady, the manager, who said:

"The dramatic critics of New York may be able to drive me out of the theatrical business, but I will die fighting. I declare to you that I am through bowing to the dictates of these men. They drove Fannie Davenport to her grave; they have ruined other well-meaning men and women, but I say to you, they cannot crucify me as long as I am able to fight."

NEW REPRIEVE FOR PATRICK.

Hearing for New Trial Is Adjourned Till April 3 and Execution Must Be Postponed.

NEW YORK, March 2.—The hearing on the motion for a new trial in the case of Albert T. Patrick, convicted of the murder of William Marsh Rice, an aged millionaire, was adjourned today until April 3. This will make necessary a further reprieve by Gov. Higgins, as Patrick is now under sentence to be executed March 19.

District Attorney Jerome informed Recorder Goff, before whom the hearing was being held, that he would join with Patrick's attorney in the application for the reprieve. Recorder Goff said that he would also give his approval to the application for a new reprieve.

HINTON, W. VA., March 2.—Because of failure of air brakes to work two engines and 54 loaded coal cars ran away for a distance of three miles today, on the Loop creek branch of the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad, finally crashing into 29 empty cars at Thurmond, wrecking 15 coal cars, demolishing both locomotives and killing Engineer M. A. Perkins. The others of the crew jumped and escaped with severe bruises.

The Death Roll

Joseph G. Siebeneck.

Joseph George Siebeneck, one of the old school of journalists, and a man widely known in this vicinity, died yesterday at his residence, 855 Beech avenue, Allegheny. He had been in poor health for about two years and succumbed rapidly to an attack of pneumonia contracted a few days ago. Mr. Siebeneck was born in Mayence, Germany, in 1832, and while at the University of Bonn became associated with Carl Schurz in an insurrection against the German empire. With other students he published a revolutionary journal, and, with Schurz aided in the defense of Rastadt, after the fall of which all the revolutionists were compelled to flee the country. That was in 1849, and four years later Mr. Siebeneck became a resident of this locality. He aided in surveying the Pittsburgh & Connellsville railroad and later the Pittsburgh & Washington railroad, now part of the Panhandle system. For some time he was in business as an architect, and in 1857 became associated with Charles McKnight and William A. Collins in the publication of the Pittsburgh "Chronicle." In 1874 Mr. Siebeneck became sole owner of the paper, continuing as its chief editor until 1884, when the "Chronicle" was merged with the "Evening Telegraph." He continued in active newspaper work until 1900 when the paper he was interested in was sold. Since that time Mr. Siebeneck had lived in retirement.

Mr. Siebeneck's interests were many. He represented the Associated Press in Pittsburgh for almost a quarter of a century, and from the time of the establishment of the Allegheny General hospital was secretary of the board of directors. He was the first secretary of the Western Pennsylvania Exposition society, doing much for the growth of that organization. He was a charter member of the chamber of commerce and in an official capacity was connected with the Third National bank, the Safe Deposit and Trust Company, and the Allemannia Insurance Company. In church affairs he was identified with Trinity Episcopal. In 1871 he was married to Miss Estelle King, daughter of Josiah King. The following children survive: Mary, wife of T. E. Bilquist; Henry King Siebeneck and Mrs. Nora Swayne, II. The funeral will be held from the Beech avenue residence this afternoon.

Mrs. Chesrown was the daughter of Major Thomas Buckner Armistead of Richmond, a descendant of an old and distinguished Virginia family. She was born on March 31, 1876, at Newstead, on one of her father's plantations, near Old Point Comfort. Her father, who is still living at the age of 75, was the owner of a hundred slaves and three plantations at the breaking out of the civil war. He entered the conflict as major of cavalry and gave not only distinguished service, but his fortune to the confederate cause. He was of the same family as Maj. Gen. Armistead of Gettysburg fame. Mrs. Chesrown was married on November 24, 1897, and shortly after she and her husband sailed for Spain, whither she was sent by the Westinghouse Company to install an electric light plant at Malaga. Eight days after their arrival there the United States declared war against Spain, and it was only through influence of court officials and after many exciting adventures that the bride and groom were able to escape. They finally, however, reached the states in safety, and before coming to Pittsburgh a little over three years ago, they had lived in Brunswick, Me.; Seattle, Wash.; Toronto, Can., and Washington, D. C., where Mr. Chesrown was engaged in work as electrical engineer. He is now manager for the Westinghouse Company in the Pittsburgh district. Mrs. Chesrown was a prominent member of Calvary Protestant Episcopal church, of the Daughters of the King, and Calvary Sisterhood of that church. In addition to her husband and her father, Mrs. Chesrown is survived by four sisters, Mrs. L. J. Heidt and Misses Hallie and Frances, all of Richmond, Va., and Mrs. R. B. Rood of Haverhill, Mass.

HUNDREDS OF LAWYERS HONOR SCOTT'S MEMORY

Allegheny County Bar Association Holds Largest Meeting in Its History and Passes Appropriate Minutes.

A meeting in honor of the late William Scott was held by the Allegheny County Bar association yesterday afternoon. It was the largest meeting ever held by the association on the death of a member, the room being crowded to the doors and many of those desiring to attend were unable to secure admission.

Judge S. A. McClung presided and the vice presidents included Judges M. H. Acheson, F. H. Collier, W. G. Hawkins, Robert S. Frazer and Joseph Buffington; Solomon Schoyer, Jr., Christopher Magee, John Dalzell, H. A. Miller, Thomas Herriott, J. E. McKelvey, C. H. McKee and J. K. Sterrett.

Strong addresses were made by the Hon. John Dalzell, Clarence Burleigh, Johns McCleave, T. D. Chantler, Judge J. J. Miller, Judge W. D. Porter of the superior court and Nathaniel Ewing, former judge of Fayette county, all lamenting the loss to their profession in the death of Mr. Scott. A committee, consisting of D. T. Watson, J. M. Swearingen, W. B. Rodgers, J. H. Reed, Johns McCleave, Nathaniel Ewing and George B. Gordon, presented an appropriate minute which was adopted and entered on the books of the association.

Attorney Clarence Burleigh voiced the sentiments of every lawyer present when he said, among other things: "When the grim angel of death took away William Scott last Tuesday morning he took away one of the brightest and most honorable, most conscientious and well-beloved members of the Allegheny county bar. It is nothing more than fitting that we who loved him in life and revere his memory take this time from our strenuous duties to pay the tribute due to a man who was such an example to other lawyers and such an ornament to his profession."

Edward Zendochius, a policeman, was the next witness. The case was adjourned at this point until next Monday.

BOOKS and BOOKMEN BY GEORGE SEIBEL

SEVERAL extremely interesting new books have come from the press this week. "Immigration and Its Effect Upon the United States," by Prescott F. Hall, secretary of the Immigration Restriction league, is an important contribution to the controversy, published by Henry Holt & Co. "The Fall of Tsardom," by Carl Joubert (who has just died), discusses Russian problems and is published by the J. B. Lippincott Company. "Euripides and the Spirit of His Dramas," by Paul Decharme, is a study of the great Greek tragedian by an eminent French scholar and is issued by the Macmillan Company. "The Opal Sea," by John C. Van Dyke, is a book of ocean beauty seen from the painter's point of view, similar to the same author's work on "The Desert," and is published by Charles Scribner's Sons.

More important than any of these, perhaps, are two works issued by Doubleday, Page & Co. The first is "Letters and Recollections of George Washington," hitherto unpublished, by his private secretary, the other is "The International Cook Book," by Alexander Filippini, for many years the chef at Delmonico's.

Some interesting fiction issues remain to be chronicled. "The Adventures of a Supercargo," by Louis Becke, the South Sea Kipling, is published by the J. B. Lippincott Company. "The Prisoner of Ornith Farm," by Frances Powell, is a romantic mystery novel published by Charles Scribner's Sons. "The Seamaid," by Ronald Macdonald, son of the late George Macdonald, is published by Henry Holt & Co. "Under the Arch," a novel by Lady Henry Somerset, is published by Doubleday, Page & Co., as is also "The Lady and the Ladder," by Harrison Garfield Rhodes, a tale of social climbers. "The Opal Serpent," one of Fergus Hume's detective stories, is published by C. W. Dillingham & Co.

Another Pittsburgh author will come forward soon to claim his place in literature. In announcing "The Colonel of the Red Hussars," the J. B. Lippincott Company confidently say that not in many years has appeared a novel of such entertainment as this. John Reed Scott, the author, is a well-known Pittsburgh lawyer, with some eight years' newspaper experience however. This is his first novel, and it is said to be a rattling good story of love, adventure and intrigue. The reader will be captivated by the heroine, Princess Dehra, who, with all her courage, daring and wit, mingles a tenderness and an air of feminine mystery.

EDITH RICKERT,
Author of "The Reaper" and "Folly."

A QUEER TRIANGLE.

Folly. By Edith Rickert. New York: The Baker & Taylor Company. Pittsburgh: J. R. Weldin & Co. 368 pages. Price, $1.50.

THE old, old triangular problem—that of the one woman and two men, not that of the two women and one man—is presented in a new setting by the author of "The Reaper." Perhaps it was the domestic tragedy of John Ruskin's life that suggested the fundamental situation of her new novel to Miss Rickert; perhaps it was evolved according to necessity, this inevitable choice among all possible combinations, as Poe asks us to believe his "Raven" was hatched. However that may be, Miss Rickert has written a book that will be read and talked about.

The heroine's name is Folly, and her name sounds the keynote of her conduct. She is married to a "parfait gentil knighte," except that he couches his indulgence to his wife in explosively profane terms. When she tells him that he will be able to keep her forever—"I don't want to," said he curtly. "If at any time you wish to go, you can go when you —damn please. I'll not stop you." And later, when a "little fool man" of a poet has appeared upon the scene, this most complaisant and unselfish of husbands declares, "If I thought you wanted him you should have him and be —— damned." He concluded this "under his breath," which shows a growing refinement and consideration in him.

With his permission so frequently and emphatically dinned into her ears, it is no wonder Folly at last goes off with the "little fool man." Haidane Gore is a poet; sundry of his verses are scattered through the novel to show that he's not very much of one; he is stricken with an incurable disease, and his days are numbered. Folly, who hated the "comfortable" clothes her husband wore, falls in love with this "half-man" and at last persuades him to run away with her, or rather she runs away after him.

She stays with him through the months before his death. These chapters are the most beautiful in the book. They breathe a sober calm, a restful resignation, even though transfused with passionate longing and despairing hope. When Haidane Gore goes away to die alone, Folly returns to England.

At this point, if Miss Rickert has earlier drawn inspiration from John Ruskin's case, now she derives it from Ibsen's "Little Eyolf." Like Rita Allmers, Folly devotes herself to something between a creche and a baby-farm. And at last, as might be expected, the complaisant though objurgative husband drifts across the scene again. She asks him to take her back, and when he doesn't display undue alacrity she gets more insistent. He is complaisant again and takes her without profanity, though this time it might be excusable.

There is no element of novelty in this plot, as we have seen, nor is the style of the novel, though restrained and graceful, anywhere distinguished above the general average. There remains a third point—the characterization. Here is the novel's strength, even in its weakness. The three almost impossible characters, the wildly impulsive Folly, the quixotic Don Juan of a poet, the magnanimous ass of a husband, are rendered quite credible by the naturalness of Miss Rickert's art. And so this book is worthy to be placed beside her "Reaper," that strong and somber picture of Shetland life which won critical praise two years ago. She is one of the young writers who must be reckoned with—one of those to whom much has been given and from whom therefore much will be demanded.

DICKINSON AT CARLISLE.

In Old Bellaire. By Mrs. Mary Dillon. New York: The Century Company. Pittsburgh: J. R. Weldin & Co. 363 pages, illustrated. Price, $1.50.

Strong local interest should be felt in Mrs. Dillon's new novel of war times, for it is very clear that Old Bellaire is Carlisle, Pa., and Tomlinson college is Dickinson. Those familiar with the town and the institution go even further and declare that Dr. Charlton, president of Tomlinson, is the author's father, Dr. Johnson, who at the outbreak of the civil war was president of Dickinson college. In the battle which Mrs. Dillon describes, Richard Watson Gilder is said to have taken part—he was a gunner, having left his law studies in Philadelphia and enlisted in Landis' battery, First Philadelphia artillery. Charles Godfrey Leland and his brother Henry were in the same company and also took part in the fight.

It is not, however, with local or literary associations, interesting and fascinating though these may be, that the criticism of a novel should be concerned. Mrs. Dillon's story would be a good story wherever laid. It is the story of a demure New England girl who comes to the college, and meets the most dashing young fellow of the town, who at first thinks her a "cold-blooded little Yankee," but soon surrenders his heart into her keeping. Gradually the frigidity of her Puritan training melts before the genial warmth of his Cavalier soul. Life in the old college town, in all its phases, from choir rehearsal to dancing the Virginia reel, is pictured most charmingly—and then comes the thunderclap of war. Rex joins the Southern army; Eunice stays in old Bellaire. When the Confederate invasion of Pennsylvania comes they hear of each other again, though Mrs. Dillon's subtle sense of artistic propriety keeps them from meeting. At the battle of Gettysburg, which follows, Rex is severely wounded, and four years later, when peace again reigns, the romance finds its logical conclusion. It is a tale told with old-fashioned tenderness and charm, and many dramatic touches, as when Millie sings "We'll hang Jeff Davis" in hearing of the Rebel sentry. Moreover, there is distinct originality in the idea of the Southern soldier's coming north and falling in love with the Northern girl; for it is always the Yankee that surrenders to a Southern lass.

ENGLAND'S ROYAL BLUEBEARD.

The Wives of Henry VIII. By Martin Hume. New York: McClure, Phillips & Co. Pittsburgh: J. R. Weldin & Co. 476 pages, illustrated. Price, $2.50.

Someone has lately attempted the rehabilitation of Gilles de Retz, commonly assumed to be the original Bluebeard, and it would have been quite in keeping with the spirit of the times if Mr. Hume had proceeded to whitewash Henry, as he does partially. The lives of Henry's six consorts are generally told as if each had been "an isolated phenomenon that had by chance attracted the desire of a lascivious despot, and in her turn had been deposed when his eye had fallen, equally fortuitously, upon another woman who pleased his errant fancy better." Mr. Hume believes this view to be superficial and misleading, but he does not go to the other extreme of holding up Henry as a far-seeing statesman, sternly resolved to free his country from the yoke of Rome. The Henry he depicts is a weak, vain, boastful man, whose passions were adroitly used by politicians to further their ends. The English reformation was not his work; he was but the tool of others.

The picture of Henry presented is not a flattering one from any point of view. It is that of a bully and a coward, a sanctimonious hypocrite and a coarse sensualist. But there are indeed few flattering pictures in the book. All of Henry's six wives from Katherine of Aragon to Katherine Parr, were some removes from perfection; his ministers and favorites were time-servers and self-seekers; Wolsey was insolent and Cranmer vacillatory; the court, while ostentatiously respectable, was as unbridled in license as that of brazenly indecorous France. In sooth, it is not at all an edifying spectacle Mr. Hume presents of the time "When Knighthood Was in Flower."

HISTORY UP TO DATE.

The Development of the European Nations. By J. Holland Rose. New York: G. P. Putnam's Sons. Pittsburgh: J. R. Weldin & Co. Two volumes, 376 and 363 pages, with maps. Price, $5.00.

Mr. Rose established his reputation as a historian by a life of Napoleon. There are so many lives of Napoleon, from Hazlitt's to Miss Tarbell's, that writing a new one seems like carrying coals to Newcastle. That Mr. Rose not only succeeded in pleasing the general reader, but also challenged the attention of historical students, is ample proof of his qualification as a writer of history. But such a task as he has set himself in his second work presents difficulties no less formidable, though of different nature. To write current history is to run danger of tomorrow's calling you a liar or a fool. Mr. Rose has had the temerity to trace the course of European events from 1870 to 1896, a period which includes the Franco-Prussian war, Russian expansion and the eastern question, the Balkan troubles and African partition. Most of these matters are still unsettled; a false move at Algeciras might reopen even the first; hence the futility of final dicta, the precariousness of presumptive conclusions.

It must be said that Mr. Rose has kept upon the safe side, and yet he sees clearly every change that has taken place in national characteristics and attitudes. Thus he sums up the situation in France: "Sensible, businesslike men of bourgeois origin"—he is speaking of President Loubet and his predecessors, though the words also apply to Failieres—"they typify the new France that has grown up since the age when military adventurers could keep their heels on her neck, provided that they crowned her brow with laurels." Thus, also, he discerns the real weakness of Russia: "There can be no doubt that the mere size of the states and governments of the present age exercises a deadening effect on the minds of individuals. As the vastness of London produces inertia in civic affairs, so, too, the great empires tend to deaden the initiative and boldness of their subjects. * * * It may be that in the future some commanding genius will arise, able to free himself from the paralyzing incubus, to fire the dull masses with hope, and to turn the very vastness of the governmental machine into a means of destruction. But, for that achievement, he will need the magnetism of a Mirabeau, the savagery of a Marat and the organizing powers of a Bonaparte."

A RELIGIOUS DIME NOVEL.

A Lost Cause. By Guy Thorne. New York: G. P. Putnam's Sons. Pittsburgh: J. R. Weldin & Co. 396 pages. Price, $1.50.

The case of Guy Thorne is an interesting one. He wrote "When It Was Dark," a religious novel in a Jules Verne vein. A lot of impressionable people took it seriously, and now he takes himself seriously. "A Lost Cause" is a panegyric of High Church Ritualism. The "lost" cause is that of the "Protestants"—those that protest against the celebration of the Mass. The cause upheld by Mr. Thorne is that of the "Catholics"—not the Roman Catholics, but the soi-disant Catholics in the Church of England. The controversy has little enough interest for American readers; as for the story, this is trashy and absurd. For example, when Gussie opens a box of chocolates and finds mass wafers instead, her terror is quite comical. The episode of the purloined communion wafer, though vouched for as true, also fails to stir any sentiment of awe. In fact, the whole attempt to put the Ritualist controversy into the style of a Deadwood Dick novel is "A Lost Cause." Mr. Thorne may think he is reverent, but he is merely ridiculous.

ADVENTURE GETS BORESOME.

The Passenger from Calais. By Arthur Griffiths. Boston: L. C. Page & Co. Pittsburgh: J. R. Weldin & Co. 290 pages. Price, $1.25.

A young woman with a stolen baby, the ubiquitous Englishman, this time a lieutenant colonel, and a foxy-haired detective, all on board the Engadine express, which is conveniently empty of other passengers, make an auspicious start for this romance. For a while one fancies himself in the clutch of the unique Archibald Clavering Gunter, or of his Doppelgaenger E. Phillips Oppenheim, but it is only for a while. Then the adventuress begins to pall, the baby ceases to interest, the lieutenant colonel and the detective are no more to us than Trojan or Tyrian. The story is neither plausible nor coherent; the characters do what they do only that they may not be caught idle; and the most amazing things, even to finding a missing woman in Africa and taking off an obnoxious Lord by apoplexy, occur by the merest chance. For a would-be thriller, it is decidedly boresome.

INSTEAD OF CHRISTIANITY.

The Religion of Christ in the Twentieth Century. Anonymous. New York: G. P. Putnam's Sons. Pittsburgh: J. R. Weldin & Co. 197 pages. Price, $1.50.

"The Christian religion has been tried for eighteen centuries," said Lessing; "the religion of Christ remains to be tried." Taking this for his text, the author attempts to show what the religion of Christ is, or should be. He is opposed to dogma and ritual. Paul was too much a Pharisee, John too much a Platonist; neither of them was qualified to preach the Gospel of Christ. This Gospel the author attempts to rescue from theological obfuscation. His conception of the Atonement will give some intimation of his views. "So long as men and women suffer because they love, will humanity ask itself for some solution of the mystery of redemption." He has italicised "suffer because they love." Upon similarly subtle conceptions, and in some instances upon daring dialectics, he builds the edifice of his faith. It is a book for the practiced theologian; the layman, and many a preacher will find it perplexing by its brilliancy and erudition.

HIS OWN VILLAIN.

Double Trouble. By Herbert Quick. Indianapolis: The Bobbs-Merrill Company. 320 pages, illustrated. Price, $1.50.

A humorous Jekyll and Hyde is what the author of "Aladdin & Co." has given us in his new romance. The subtitle is meaningful, "Every Man His Own Villain." Florian Amidon, the hero, and Eugene Brassfield, the villain, are one and the same man. It is a case of dual personality, such as is responsible for many a mysterious disappearance. Like Hawthorne's Wakefield, Mr. Amidon leaves home and is heard of no more for five years. But, unlike Wakefield, he does not know himself during all the time of his absence. When he does return to himself, with a love-letter from an unremembered Elizabeth in his pocket, he determines to undo the mischief he has done as somebody else. The difficulties and contretemps encountered in this effort make an entangling tale, which mingles the dash of "The Prisoner of Zenda" with the whimsicality of "Charley's Aunt." It is a most diverting book.

DOWNTRODDEN NATIONALITY.

The Slovaks of Hungary. By Thomas Capek. New York: The Knickerbocker Press. 214 pages.

Mr. Capek, who is a member of the New York bar, inscribes his work to "P. V. Rovnianek of Pittsburgh, a tireless worker for Slovak rights." The book is an account of a Slavonic race which is represented nearly 400,000 strong in America. The Slovaks have been persistently oppressed by the Magyars in Hungary, and even while Kossuth and his comrades were pleading and battling for justice from Austria they were persecuting and treading down their own countrymen of another race. Mr. Capek gives an illuminative and well-written account of the Slavonians in general and the Slovaks in particular, telling the heroic history and sufferings of the latter race with consummate eloquence. The American who wishes to understand Panslavism, its ramifications and its aspirations, should read this book, and it will rouse him into sympathy with this Cinderella of European nationalities.

GRUESOME BOER TALES.

Vrouw Grobelaar and Her Leading Cases. By Perceval Gibbon. New York: McClure, Phillips & Co. Pittsburgh: J. R. Weldin & Co. 293 pages. Price, $1.25.

Vrouw Grobelaar is a garrulous Boer grandmother, who goes her placid way like an elephant over eggshells. "Her imagination ran to the gruesome, and she never planted a precept but she drove it home with a case in point." The supernatural is real to her; horror hedges about her little world of veldt and kraal. Some of her stories, like "The Avenger of Blood," are as uncanny as some of Maupassant's. There is much fighting with Kaffirs, and it is described as if the ping of the Boer rifle were in the reader's ears. Such a story as "The Coward" also reveals a marvelous grasp of psychology. These seventeen tales, in short, are marvelous in their graphic power, reminding one of Kipling's earlier Indian tales by their succinct and terse phrasing which yet reveals so much. Vrouw Grobelaar herself is an interesting and curious character study.

AZTECS UP-TO-DATE.

The Fall of Tollan. By James Edward Routh, Jr. Boston: Richard G. Badger. 51 pages. Price, 75 cents.

An imposing epic of ancient Mexico might naturally be expected to have some local color, but when the mob shouts "Hurray, hollo, hollo," and when a lover by the picturesque name of Xochitl sings a song about the whippoorwill, we look for some reference to free silver and May Irvin next. Aside from its anachronistic and anthropo-illogical bent, however, the poem has some merits as poetry. Mr. Routh has a pretty fancy and a quiver full of flamboyant words.

PLENTY OF THRILLS.

The Silver Pin. By Alfred Wilson-Barrett. Akron, O.: The Saalfield Company. 275 pages, illustrated. Price, $1.50.

"The Silver Pin," is a thriller sure enough. One of the milder incidents is that of the hero's being locked up with an infuriated tiger. One of the more sensational ones is a murder, of which the beautiful heroine is suspected. In between are fights with Hooligans and a game of baccarat with the assassin's knife as a mascot. The chapter headings are full of thrills in themselves. "The Spider and the Fly," "In the Power of a Fiend," "Enmeshed in the Web"—how breathless and promising. The moral of the book seems to be that being bit by a silver hatpin that falls from a top floor window is a sure sign of trouble and adventures galore.

THE SHADOW OF A PAST.

All That Was Possible. By Howard Overing Sturgis. New York: G. P. Putnam's Sons. Pittsburgh: J. R. Weldin & Co. 312 pages, illustrated. Price, $1.50.

The value of conventional morality is the theme of the letters written by Mrs. Sibyl Crofts, Comedian, to her friend Milly. Sibyl has conferred the title of "Mrs." upon herself for the sake of appearances. "I can't help reflecting on the fact that George Sand and George Eliot did just what I did, and nobody seemed to think it was odd. I suppose if I called myself John Snooks and wrote novels, that it might be forgiven me too." After having closed her liaison with the young earl, she meets a man with whom she falls deeply in love. Will he marry her despite her past? Should she marry him despite her past? The denouement, with its exposition of masculine logic, is admirably managed. Both the hero and the heroine are so ingenuously inconsistent as to be quite human.

DIVINE FIRE GONE OUT.

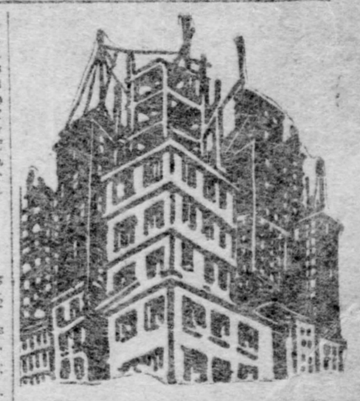
Samson Marrying, Samson at Timnah, Samson Hybristes, Samson Blinded. By Edwin T. Whiffen. Boston: Richard G. Badger. 190 pages. Price, 1.50.

Four dramatic poems, all of them with the great Judge and Deliverer of the Hebrews as their hero, are gathered into one volume. Mr. Whiffen is evidently under the influence of Aeschylus, but he neither reaches to the cloudy heights of the Greek seer nor is he able to write respectable English blank verse. Throughout the 190 pages of the book there is hardly a line that rises above mediocrity—it is all dull, prosy, tedious, without a spark of divine fire.

PLATITUDES AND ONE KISS.

Love Letters That Caused a Divorce. By Mrs. A. E. Aldington. New York: G. W. Dillingham Company. Pittsburgh: J. R. Weldin & Co. 96 pages.

The title of this book is cleverly calculated to attract vulgar curiosity. The vulgarly curious will be disappointed, for the letters contain nothing but cheap platitudes and one long lingering kiss. The book is a paltry imitation of "An Englishwoman's Love Letters" and "Letters That Never Reached Him."



Skyscraper construction would be impossible without the pneumatic hammer which enables the workmen to rivet together the great steel beams and erect the skeleton of a twenty-four-story building in an astonishingly short time. It took hundreds of years to build the pyramids and the medieval cathedrals and palaces. It takes but three or four months to build a modern skyscraper.

Advertising mediums like THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL are the pneumatic hammers of business-building. The careful, slow methods employed before the days of advertising were good, and they have built up enormous businesses, but to-day, by means of advertising, businesses equally as great and equally good are built up in a short time by the use of such mediums as THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL.

SOCIETY

Contributions to this department must bear the name and address of the writer to insure attention.

THE post-Lenten season, and especially the weeks immediately following Easter, will be crowded with weddings, many of which will be among the most brilliant Pittsburgh society has ever witnessed. One of the most interesting will be that of Miss Eleanor Humbird and Southard Hay. Trinity Protestant Episcopal church will be the scene of the wedding, which is being spoken of as an afternoon event. It will probably take place the latter part of Easter week, but the exact date has not yet been settled upon. Miss Humbird is the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James S. Humbird of Morewood avenue, Shadyside. Her fiance, who is a son of Mrs. Malcolm Hay of Ridge avenue, Allegheny, is a Yale man. The wedding of his sister, Miss Edith Dallas Hay, and Hubart Moore of Sewickley, will take place in June. No time has been spoken of for the wedding of Miss Humbird's younger sister, Miss Anica Humbird, to James Hay Reed, Jr.

Society at the Country Club.

The Country club in Squirrel Hill presented an attractive appearance yesterday afternoon on the occasion of Mrs. George Wilmer Martin's tea. Although the tea was an informal 4 o'clock affair, it was quite large, and in the evening was supplemented by a dinner for the girls and a dance for men and women. Mrs. Frank Shepard and Mrs. Paul A. Sorg, both of whom are recent brides, and Mrs. Charles W. Hotchkiss and Mrs. Nathaniel Reith, Mrs. J. A. Aull's guests, shared the honors. The aids were Mrs. J. A. Aull, Mrs. A. S. Baymer, Mrs. M. Roy Jackson, Mrs. J. Grant Anderson, Mrs. J. M. Anderson, Mrs. J. A. Phillips, Mrs. Edward Martin, Mrs. William T. Watson, Miss Reese and Miss Lou Childs McLain.

Cards at Oakmont.

Six-hand euchre was played at 10 tables yesterday afternoon when Mrs. Thomas A. Hunter entertained at the Oakmont Boat club. The card party was given for Miss Maude E. Hunter, whose marriage to James Templeton Libbey is scheduled for next Wednesday. Pretty linen parasols were the prizes won by Mrs. Edgar Martin, Mrs. Willis H. Cameron and Mrs. William H. Cooper. The appointments were all in red and white, with hearts predominating. Mrs. Charles Agnew of Oakmont will give a luncheon for Miss Hunter on Monday.

People Coming and Going.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Steel Schultz returned yesterday from their wedding trip to California. They went directly to their apartments in the Bellefield dwellings.

Mrs. L. Halsey Williams and her daughter, Miss Susan S. Williams, who left early in the week for Lakewood, N. J., will be joined shortly by Miss Jeannette Hawkins of Shadyside.

Miss Margaret Singer of Western avenue, Allegheny, expects to spend the greater part of March with her sister, Mrs. William Ross Proctor, in Lakewood, N. J.

Wedding Will Be Quiet.

There will be no attendants at the wedding of Miss Mabel Ferguson and Beveridge Webster on Wednesday of next week. The wedding will take place at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Ferguson in Ben Avon, the Rev. James Webster, a cousin of the bridegroom, officiating. Only relatives of the bridal couple will witness the ceremony. Plans for being at home have not yet been completed. Mr. Webster is director of the Pittsburgh Conservatory of Music.

Guests Are Given Souvenirs.

Exquisitely beautiful doilies of Japanese embroidery, collected by the hostess during her recent trip through the orient, were given as souvenirs yesterday at Mrs. Frank O. Van Gorder's bridge party at her home in South Negley avenue. Mrs. Van Gorder's visiting friend, Mrs. William W. Wilson of Germantown, was the guest of honor. Ten tables were in play and the prizes were won by Mrs. J. Goodrich Ruple, Mrs. Galen C. Hallman, Mrs. Samuel McElroy and Mrs. N. B. Young.

A Shadyside Luncheon.

Mrs. John Read Scott of Clyde street, Shadyside, entertained with a beautifully appointed little luncheon yesterday, having as her guest of honor Mrs. Cloud, who has recently come from London, England, to make her home in Pittsburgh. The guests included Mrs. Cloud, Mrs. Starling Winston Childs, Mrs. Frank S. Missell, Miss Mary Louise Jackson, Miss Julia Morgan Harding, Miss Riddle and Mrs. W. H. Forsyth.

Cleveland Guest Is Honored.

Mrs. Frank Edgar Williams of Cleveland, who is visiting Mr. and Mrs. George Dwight Brock of North Negley avenue, was guest of honor yesterday at a luncheon given by Mrs. James Scott of Stanton avenue. Covers were laid for 12 and the luncheon was followed by an afternoon of whist, at which a prize was won by Mrs. G. E. Turner.

Newcomers Are Welcomed.

A number of their neighbors in Crafton and Thornburg surprised Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Aiken last evening with a fancy dress party at their new home. The affair served as a housewarming for the handsome new Aiken residence, and was also planned as a welcome to Mr. and Mrs. Aiken, who are newcomers in the borough.

Family Dinner as a Farewell.

The Rev. Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Sproull of North avenue, Allegheny, gave a dinner of 12 covers last evening as a farewell for their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Scott H. MacGregor, who left after the dinner for their new home in Tacoma, Wash., where Mr. MacGregor's business has called him.

THE GAZETTE PATTERN.

(5586 5427.) Ladies' Shirt Waist Costume.

An excellent mode for general wear is here pictured in a development of dark blue mohair. Nine gores are employed in shaping the pleated skirt, which flares in prevailing style at the foot. Deep tucks produce becoming fulness in the front of the blouse. The back is plain, except for slight gathers at the waistline. The sleeves are moderately full, finished by deep cuffs. Several materials are adaptable, such as serge, cashmere, cheviot, linen and canvas. The medium size will require 6¾ yards of 44-inch material for the waist and 6¼ yards for the skirt.

Ladies' shirt waist No. 5586; Sizes for 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42-inch bust measure.

Ladies' nine gored full skirt, No. 5427. Sizes for 20, 22, 24, 26, 28 and 30-inch waist measure.

The above illustration calls for two separate patterns. The price is 10 cents for the shirtwaist and 10 cents for the skirt.

Two Smart Afternoon Frocks from Models Made in Paris

Figure 1 shows a gown of cerise cloth over which is worn a long jacket of heavy lace of the same shade trimmed with sable. The coat opens over a vest of pale blue embroidered in deep pink.

Figure 2 is a princesse gown of silver gray broadcloth trimmed with bands of deep gray chiffon velvet. Both costumes are models from L'Art et la Mode.

Welsh Rarebits You Won't Dream Over

Welsh Rarebit.

Welsh rarebit may be made with ale, beer or milk, with or without eggs. A plain Welsh rarebit is made in this way: Grate or cut a half pound soft, mild American cheese; grease the dish in which the rarebit is to be made with a little butter (a teaspoonful is usually enough), then put in the cheese and set over the blaze if in a chafing dish, or on top of the stove if to be cooked on the range. As it melts, keep stirring from the bottom, widening the circle of the spoon and adding little by little from three to five tablespoonfuls of beer, ale or milk; when the cheese is creamy pour on toast or crackers. It is claimed that those who suffer from indigestion after eating rarebit could have avoided it had they used a little bicarbonate of soda (a half saltspoonful) in making it. The acid acts upon the cheese to lighten it and break it up. If it strings, this little bit of soda will restore it to its creamy condition.

Boston Rarebit.

The Boston rarebit, which is very popular, is made with cream and eggs. It never strings. To make it, cut one pound fresh American cheese into small pieces, and beat two eggs very light. Put into the chafing dish blazer, or saucer, a tablespoonful of butter. Add the cheese, with red pepper, salt and mustard to taste, and begin stirring and pressing with the back of your spoon. When soft and well mixed, add a half cup of cream. Stir until smooth, then add the beaten eggs and stir hard for a moment. Turn out the flame or push back on the range, cover and let the mixture rest a moment without stirring, then spread on toast or crackers. If you like your toast rather soft it is a good plan to dip each slice for a second before spreading with cheese into hot milk or salted water.

Roquefort Rarebit.

Take a quarter pound Roquefort cheese and mash with a silver fork on a plate until soft. Add a teaspoonful of salt, the same amount of mustard and a generous tablespoonful of butter, with ale to blend the whole into a creamy mass, and spread on crackers. This requires no cooking.

Golden Buck.

This is simply Welsh rarebit with a poached egg on top of the cheese and toast.

Yorkshire Rarebit.

Yorkshire rarebit is a strip of broiled or fried bacon on top of the poached egg or rarebit.

A Useful Trick for a Dog.

A useful trick for a dog to learn is to shut a door when told. To teach this, place a piece of meat on the handle of the door, which is partly open, and direct the animal's attention to it. In reaching up to get at the dainty he will put his forepaws on the door, and unconsciously push it to, says Home Chat.

After a time he will perform the trick without anything being placed on the handle; but something should be given to him afterward, as he will not fail to go through the performance if a reward follows.

Royal Children's Simple Toys.

The Czar's eldest daughter has one of the finest collections of penny toys in the world, which have been sent to her from Paris, London and Berlin. The prince and princess of Wales generally give their children sensible and inexpensive toys, and when the little ones weary of them they are sent to one of the children's hospitals or to the Children's Happy Evenings Association, to gladden the hearts of less fortunate juveniles.—Home Notes.

State Board Meets Monday.

Miss Eliza D. Armstrong, president of the state board of the Pennsylvania Consumers' league will leave Sunday evening for Philadelphia to attend the annual meeting on Monday morning in the headquarters in Locust street. Miss Armstrong expects to leave Philadelphia for Boston, where she will attend the annual meeting of the National Consumers' league, which will open Tuesday. Miss Armstrong is a vice president of the national organization. Last evening she said she must withdraw from both the state and national boards because of the work which they entail. Miss Armstrong is also president of the Western Pennsylvania branch of the Consumers' league. At the meeting of the state board Monday, when the annual election of officers will be conducted, an effort will be made at reorganization of the state league. At present there is a Philadelphia and a Western Pennsylvania branch. An effort will be made to more fully organize the central part of the state, making a third branch organization there.

One of the most important matters to be brought up at the meeting of the national league is he investigation of foods. There is a difference of opinion among the officers and members of the league as to the possibility of the league taking this up, as its province is more strictly economic, while the discussion of pure food is hygienic and comes more properly within the scope of the national pure food commission. A strong effort, however, will be made to have this new line of work taken up by the league. Miss Armstrong and Mrs. S. Burns Weston of Merion station, president of the Philadelphia branch of the state league, will be the Pennsylvania representatives at the meeting in Boston.

Plantation Songs for Children's Hospital.

Arrangements are being made for an entertainment to be given late in March or during the early part of April for the benefit of the Pittsburgh Hospital for Children. Neither the date nor the place has been decided upon, but in a few days definite announcements will be made. Mrs. Martha S. Gielow of New York, who has appeared before the society in Washington, D. C., in New York city and other places, will come to Pittsburgh to give a program of recitation and plantation songs. The children's hospital is in great need of money. An appeal to the public was issued a few days ago signed by the members of the board of directors. In addition to meeting its running expenses the hospital is in need of further equipment and of additional buildings. The isolation ward will require $8,000. The hospital is always crowded and now there are 28 children there, while many others cannot be received because there is no more room. A new hospital building is greatly needed and such a one as will meet the demand and be properly equipped will call for an expenditure of $200,000. The officers of the board of managers, which met yesterday in the hospital are Mrs. George W. Guthrie, president; Miss Mary McKee, first vice president; Mrs. David Kirk, treasurer; Miss Bessie Johnson, secretary. Mrs. W. Dawges Wood is chairman of the building committee.

Sewing for the Babies.

The Sisterhood of Calvary Protestant Episcopal church has offered to make a large number of infants' clothes and cotton gowns for women which will be used by the Fruit and Flower mission in the work which it carries on among the poor and the sick. By means of its visiting nurse, Miss Cline, the appeal for clothing and money made by the mission a month ago met with ready response on the part of the public. Some of the money received has been used in the purchase of material which will be made up by the women of the several churches, the first to sew for the mission being the Sisterhood of Calvary church. The annual meeting of the Fruit and Flower mission will be held in April, when the election of officers will take place.

Studies Italian Architecture.

The regular meeting of the Epoch club was held yesterday morning, Mrs. J. B. Dunn entertaining in her home in Thomas boulevard. Pictures and descriptive talks on Italian architecture occupied the greater part of the program. Mrs. W. C. Lyne talked of "Gothic Cathedrals in Italy," Mrs. H. T. Morris following with a short paper on "Giotto's Tower in Florence" and the "Sainte Chapelle in Paris." Mrs. Charles S. Eaton gave a reading from Mrs. Oliphant's "Makers of Florence."

Nothing Else Like It.

The delicate bouquet of the creamery butter sold by McCann & Co., 412-415 Market street, speaks volumes for quality and sanitation.

Marlborough-Blenheim Hotel.

The Messrs. Josiah White & Sons have just completed the new annex to their Marlborough house in Atlantic City. This house, which contains 250 guest rooms and 250 private baths, will increase their total capacity so that the Marlborough-Blenheim, which is the name of the combined establishment, will accommodate 1,100 guests.

While the houses are separated by a public street, Ohio avenue, they are connected by bridges extending from the exchange in one house to that in the other, making a continuous sun gallery all the way across.

The architecture of the Blenheim is particularly striking and attractive. A large dome covered with green and gold terra cotta surmounts the ocean end, which is 12 stories high, and frequent bands of bright colored mercer tile and light green terra cotta in sea forms make a delightfully interesting exterior. In construction the house makes a decided new departure in many respects. The columns and beams, which ordinarily in fireproof buildings are made of steel, in this building are constructed of reinforced concrete throughout. The walls are built of hollow tile plastered outside, thereby gaining two air spaces in the walls, so as to insure the dry atmosphere so essential and often lacking in new buildings. The floors are also constructed of hollow tile with reinforced concrete joists. This construction, with the macklite partitions, is considered the greatest advance in fireproof construction which has taken place in the building world. Every floor was tested to four times its greatest live load. Thomas A. Edison, the world-renowned expert, conducted the beam test, and after examining the building thoroughly, said: "It is undoubtedly the coming construction for all great buildings. It won't bend, it won't break and you couldn't burn it if you tried."

The Blenheim building, which occupies 150 feet on the ocean front (which, added to the Marlborough front, gives a total frontage to the Marlborough-Blenheim of 350 feet upon the boardwalk), has a total length of over 500 feet, and is eight stories high, except at the ocean end, which is 12 stories high, surmounted by a dome, the top of which towers 173 feet above the ocean level. The view from this tower commands a distance of 20 miles inland and oceanward, with Atlantic City spread out in panorama below.

Probably the most attractive feature of the entire Marlborough-Blenheim establishment is an inclosed and open-air sun parlor, extending 150 feet along the ocean front, one story above the boardwalk and opening directly into the exchange of the hotels. There are six large open fireplaces in this sun parlor and exchange, and a central feature consisting of a beautifully decorated gem of a ballroom, surrounded by handsome columns and stained glass windows, representing deep sea scenes interspersed with fishes, coral and plants.

Without question, the building is classed as one of the notable buildings of the world, and forms an attraction which is invaluable to the welfare of Atlantic City.

The house is furnished throughout in solid mahogany and brass beds, Baker box springs and mattresses. Its decorations by Chapman of Philadelphia are most attractive, particularly the European dining room (there are both American plan and European plan dining rooms, so that guests live whichever way they prefer), which is striking in its representations of natural fruit and vines. The decorations of the cafe represent old Norse scenes, and are unique and pleasing in their general effect.

READ AND YOU WILL LEARN

That the leading medical writers and teachers of all the several schools of practice, endorse and praise in the strongest possible terms each and every ingredient entering into the make-up of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the famous stomach tonic, liver invigorator, heart tonic and regulator and blood cleanser. This is also equally true of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, for the cure of all those weaknesses and distressing ailments peculiar to women.

No other medicines sold through druggists for domestic use, can show any such professional endorsement. Dr. Pierce's above mentioned remedies are non-alcoholic and non-secret, all their ingredients being printed on each bottle wrapper. They occupy a unique position and are IN A CLASS ALL BY THEMSELVES. They are neither secret nor patent medicines. They are powerful to cure but safe to use in any condition of the system, even for the most delicate women and children.

Pure, tripple refined glycerine, which is used instead of alcohol both for extracting and preserving the active, medicinal principles from the roots of the several American forest plants entering into Doctor Pierce's medicines, is much superior to alcohol for these purposes, and is entirely free from the objectionable features inherent in alcohol, inasmuch as it produces only salutary influences upon the system, while alcohol, even in moderate portions, if long continued, as in the treatment of obstinate ailments, is very injurious and often begets a craving for stimulants. Furthermore, glycerine itself is a most valuable curative agent instead of being a harmful habit-forming agent like alcohol. Its nutritive properties, Dr. Pierce and many others eminent in the profession believe, far surpass those of cod liver oil, entitling it to favorable consideration as a remedy in all cases of incipient consumption, especially when it is combined with the active medicinal principles extracted from Black Cherrybark, Queen's root, Stone root, Golden Seal root and Bloodroot, as in "Golden Medical Discovery."

Besides its superior nutritive properties, glycerine is a very valuable demulcent and thereby greatly enhances the remedial action of all the foregoing roots in the cure of severe coughs, bronchial, throat, laryngeal and other kindred affections of the air-passages and lungs. In all "wasting diseases," where there is loss of flesh and gradual "running down" of the system, the glycerine certainly plays an important part in lessening the breaking down and wasting of flesh, and in promoting assimilation and increase of bodily strength and weight. It is a powerful reconstructive agent in all cases of impaired vitality and especially valuable when associated and combined with such superior alteratives and tonics as in "Golden Medical Dircovery" and "Favorite Prescription." Its wonderful solvent properties also play an important part in the cure of gall stones and severe constipation.

Glycerine is also one of the very best anti-ferments and as such counteracts the excessive fermentation of foods in the stomach, present in most cases of indigestion or dyspepsia. Thus the pain, belching of noxious gas, bloating and other disagreeable symptoms are overcome and the Stone root, Golden Seal root, Bloodroot and other ingredients of "Golden Medical Discovery" are greatly assisted in their action in completing a cure.

As will be seen from the writings of Drs. Bartholow, King, Scudder, Hale, Wood, Hare, Johnson, Coe, Ellingwood and other high authorities, as contained in the little book mentioned below, these agents can confidently be depended upon for the most positive, curative action in all atonic, or weak, states of the stomach, accompanied with distressing indigestion or dyspepsia and kindred resultant affections of the liver, kidneys and other associated organs.

Read from the writings of the authorities above quoted, under the headings of Golden Seal root, Stone root, Black Cherrybark, Bloodroot, Queen's root and Mandrake root, in a little book of extracts, compiled by Dr. R. V. Pierce, and which will be sent you free on request addressed to the Doctor, at Buffalo, N. Y., and you will learn that all these ingredients are recommended as remedies for indigestion or dyspepsia and "liver complaint," as well as for the cure of all catarrhal affections wherever located, also for the cure of lingering coughs, arising from bronchial throat and lung affections. All are ingredients of "Golden Medical Discovery," combined in such proportions that each enhances the curative action of all the others.

The "Discovery" must not be expected to produce miracles. While it is especially suited for the cure of all chronic, lingering coughs that are curable, it is not so effective in acute colds and coughs unless slippery elm mucilage, flaxseed tea, solution of gum arabic, or other mucilaginous demulcent be drank freely in connection with its use. Nor must the "Golden Medical Discovery" be expected to cure consumption in its advanced stages. In its early stages it will stay its progress and often effect a cure if its use be persisted in for a reasonable length of time. Send for the little book noted above and learn what those most eminent in the medical profession say of the ingredients out of which Dr. Pierce's medicines are made and thereby learn why they cure obstinate diseases.

By reading some of the extracts from eminent authorities contained in the little booklet mentioned above, treating of the several ingredients entering into "Golden Medical Discovery," it will be readily understood why this famous medicine cures obstinate kidney and bladder affections, chronic diarrhea, all catarrhal affections, no matter in what part of the system existing. By reason of the Stone root, and Golden Seal root contained in it, it is a most effective curative in valvular and other affections of the heart, as you will understand from the writings of Drs. Paine, Hale, Ellingwood and others, concerning Stone root, Golden Seal root and Black Cherrybark which are to be found in the little booklet above mentioned.

Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure biliousness, sick and bilious headache, dizziness, costiveness, or constipation of the bowels, loss of appetite, coated tongue, sour stomach, windy belchings, "heart-burn," pain and distress after eating, and kindred derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels. Put up in glass vials, tightly corked, therefore always fresh and reliable. One little "Pellet" is a laxative, two are cathartic. They regulate, invigorate and cleanse the liver, stomach and bowels.

A good medical book, written in plain English, and free from technical terms is a valuable work for frequent consultation. Such a work is Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. It's a book of 1008 pages, profusely illustrated. It is given away now, although formerly sold in cloth binding for $1.50. Send 21 cents, in one-cent stamps, to pay for cost of mailing only for paper-covered copy, addressing Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.; or 31 cents for an elegantly cloth-bound copy.

SALE OF NORTH SIDE PROPERTY

Cunningham Lot at 222 Federal Street Is Bought for $55,000.

BEN AVON SALE OF $20,000

The property at 222 Federal street, the second lot below Lacock street, Allegheny, has been sold through the Samuel W. Black Company for $55,000, the buyer's name being withheld. The former owner was Michael Cunningham, who secured the property two years ago from Henry Rosser for $40,000, so that this deal makes him a profit of $15,000. Mr. Rosser bought the property from Watkins & Dunbar for $37,500, they having secured it a few months before for $35,000. The lot measures 22x100 feet on the east side of the street, extending back to Rampart alley, and the building is an ordinary three-story brick which Mr. Cunningham occupies with a restaurant. The sale figures at $2,500 a front foot, or $25 a square foot.

Through the office of John W. Sherrer the Kremeler property at the northeast corner of Penn avenue and St. Clair street, Nineteenth ward, has been sold to a local investor for

A. C. LESLIE.

Mr. Leslie was formerly connected with the Mortgage Banking Company and last year established himself in the real estate business at 417 Fourth avenue as the A. C. Leslie Company, whose specialty is mortgages.

$90,000. It is in two parcels, the total frontage being 46 feet, with a depth of 145 feet to Kirkwood street. On the 20 feet at the corner is a three-story brick store building occupied by Kremeler's grocery. The remaining lot is vacant and will be improved this spring with a four or six-story business block.

Fine Suburban Home Sold.

"Lawnfield," the handsome country home of Mrs. Elizabeth D. O'Neil in Ben Avon, has been sold for $25,000 through the Ben Avon Realty Company. The buyer is Charles D. Dyer, vice president of the W. P. Snyder Company, who will occupy the place as a home. It is one of the oldest fine residence properties in Ben Avon and faces in Breeding avenue, near Church avenue. The lot is 200 feet square and near the center of it stands the O'Neil home, a solid brick residence of 14 rooms, well finished in hardwood. This is the largest deal made for Ben Avon property for several months.

It was reported on the street yesterday that Charles Donnelly had sold the Frey property at Liberty avenue, Diamond and Ferry streets, which he bought two weeks ago through J. H. Gochring for $110,000. The price named in this sale is $125,000, but the rumor could not be confirmed. The lot measures 22.7x83.9x54 feet and is improved with old brick buildings.

Samuel M. Willock has conveyed to James Scott 50x154 feet on the north side of Darlington road, near Murray avenue, Twenty-second ward, and 222x170 feet on the north side of Midway avenue, near Shady avenue, for $14,000. The Squirrel Hill lot is sold subject to a 40-foot building line. It is part of the frontage recently secured by H. H. Willock, who transferred it to S. M. Willock late in January.

Sales of East End Houses.

William O. Wright, who a few weeks ago bought the Reimer property, 40x145 feet, at Wood street and Sheridan avenue, East End, for $48,000, transferred to C. N. Reimer two East End residences valued at $15,500 and $12,000 respectively. The deal was handled by W. L. Stewart. One of the houses is a new reception hall brick dwelling of 12 rooms, finished in hardwood and having a hot water heating plant. It stands on 55x145 feet on the south side of Baum street, near Rebecca street, Twentieth ward, next to the Christ Methodist Episcopal church. The other house is a double brick dwelling on 41.5x135 feet at 7068-7070 Frankstown avenue, near Murtland avenue, Twenty-first ward. Mr. Wright will improve the Sheridan avenue corner with a four-story brick building, the first floor to be used for stores and the upper floors for offices and bachelor apartments.

Mr. Reimer has had plans drawn by Architects Nirdlinger & Simpson for a four-story brick and stone building at 6021 Penn avenue and the contract has been awarded to W. O. Wright.

Through the Aronson-Friedman Company, Max Blum of Kaufmann Brothers has sold to a business man 70x159 feet in South Rebecca street, near Baum street, Twentieth ward, for $15,000. The buyer is planning to build a $50,000 apartment house on the lot.

Bound to Have New Hotel.

Rumors are rife again regarding a 16-story hotel to be erected on the site of the Seventh Avenue hostelry, if a satisfactory adjustment of the lease can be made. B. C. Wilson, the proprietor of the Seventh Avenue, admits that some negotiations are pending, but so far as known no deal has been effected. Some time ago it was reported that Mr. Wilson would spend $50,000 this summer in remodeling the present building.

Ground will be broken soon for the Presbyterian hospital building to be erected at Sherman and Montgomery avenues, Allegheny, from plans by Architects Bilquist & Lee. The site measures 105x116 feet and the building will be U-shaped, with a court 45 feet wide. The main entrance will be from Montgomery avenue. The building will have accommodations for 31 employes, 25 servants and 119 patients, and will cost about $200,000. No contracts have been awarded. Detention wards will be provided in the rear of the building along Morton street, where new patients must stay 10 days before being taken into the general wards.

One more religious edifice, the Asbury Methodist Episcopal church, at Fifth avenue and Magee street, is being converted into a dance hall. Isaac Kaufman bought the property some time ago for $150,000 and will provide, in addition to the hall, three store rooms in the front of the building. The church was built 45 years ago and was abandoned when the congregation decided to move to the Squirrel Hill district.

Suburb in One-Acre Lots.

W. D. George and D. H. Wallace of George Brothers have bought through the agency of S. H. Lloyd 23 acres of land belonging to Francis Roessler, near Sandy Creek station on the Allegheny Valley railroad. The property adjoins other holdings of the buyers amounting to 150 acres and is said to have been bought for about $400 an acre. It is near the property lately secured by the Westmoreland Country club, on which a handsome club house will be built this spring. The Roessler ground will be plotted this spring and sold off in one-acre lots, for which there is a good demand in that locality.

Through the Real Estate Savings & Trust Company J. W. Sproull has sold to W. A. Aeberli, a three-story brick house on 20x110 feet in North avenue, near Sandusky street, Allegheny, for $11,600. The house faces East park and was bought for a home.

Monticello street—C. W. Allison sold for Molly A. Fry to Thomas Chester, 7142 Monticello street, for $5,500. He also sold for Lizzie Fenlan to G. A. Drake an improved property at 7219 Tioga street for $5,000.

Laurel avenue—C. J. Hoffmann sold for Adam Hoffmann to Fred Malsel an improved lot, 20x102 feet, on the south side of Laurel avenue, Sixteenth ward, for $6,000.

James W. Drape & Co. placed these mortgages: Two loans of $2,250 each on residences in the Thirty-second ward; $4,500 and $5,000 on properties in the Second ward, Allegheny; $5,500, $4,500 and $2,700 on Crafton houses; $7,100 on a residence near Negley and Stanton avenues, all at 6 per cent.

Minor Realty Transactions.

Atlantic avenue—Joseph Kuntz sold to Elizabeth Frost an improved lot, 30x120 feet, on the north side of South Atlantic avenue, Twentieth ward, for $7,450.

Edith street—Almira V. Trunick sold to John McGraw an improved lot, 20x100 feet, on the south side of Edith street, Thirty-fifth ward, for $5,000.

Main street—Caroline Steinmiller sold to Edward J. Brobbing an improved lot, 22x220 feet, in Main street, Thirty-sixth ward, for $5,000.

IN PERIL OF HIS LIFE

BY EMILE GABORIAU

Author of "THE MYSTERY OF ORCIVAL," "FILE NO. 113," Etc.

"That would be the maximum, at all events," replied the advocate of Sauveterre. "But the trial goes on: the public prosecutor demands an overwhelming punishment; and at last the prisoner's counsel is called upon to speak. Gentlemen, you were impatient at my persistence. I confess I do not credit M. de Boiscoran's statement. But my young colleague here does credit it. Well, let him tell us candidly. Would he dare to plead this statement, and assert that the Countess de Claudieuse had been Jacques' mistress?"

M. Folgat looked annoyed. "I don't know," he said in an undertone.

"Well, I know you would not," exclaimed M. Magloire; "and you would be right, for you would risk your reputation without the slightest chance of saving Jacques. Yes, no chance whatever! for after all, let us suppose, even if you did prove that Jacques has told the truth, that he was the countess' lover, what would happen then? They would arrest the countess. Would they release M. de Boiscoran on that account? Certainly not! They would keep him in prison, and say to him, 'This woman has tried to murder her husband; she was your mistress, and you are her accomplice.' That is the situation, gentlemen!"

Grandpapa Chandore was terrified by this expose. He rose, and in an almost inaudible voice exclaimed, "Ah, all is over indeed! Innocent or guilty, Jacques de Boiscoran will be condemned." M. Magloire made no reply. "And that," continued the old gentleman, "is what you call justice!"

"Alas!" sighed M. Seneschal, "it is useless to deny it; trials by jury are a lottery—"

M. de Chandore, driven nearly crazy by his despair, interrupted him—"In other words, Jacques' honor and life depend at this hour on a chance—on the weather on the day of his trial, or the health of a juror. And if Jacques were the only one! but there is Denise, gentlemen, my poor child's life is also at stake. If you strike Jacques, you strike Denise!"

M. Folgat could hardly restrain himself. M. Seneschal, and even the doctor, sympathized with the old man's grief. Was he not threatened in his nearest, his dearest affection—in his one great love upon earth? He had taken the hand of the great advocate of Sauveterre, and, pressing it convulsively, "You will save him, Magloire, won't you?" he stammered. "What does it matter whether he be innocent or guilty, since Denise loves him? You have saved so many in your life! It is well known the judges cannot resist the weight of your words. You will find means to save a poor, unhappy man who was once your friend."

The eminent lawyer looked cast down, as if he had been guilty himself. Dr. Seignebos saw this, and exclaimed, "What do you mean, friend Magloire? Are you no longer the man whose marvelous eloquence is the pride of our country? Hold your head up; for shame! Never was a nobler cause intrusted to you."

But the advocate shook his head, and murmured, "I have no faith in it, as I have already explained to you: and I cannot plead when my conscience does not furnish the arguments;" then in a more embarrassed tone he added: "Seignebos was right in saying just now that I am not the man for such a cause. All my experience would be of no use! It will be better to intrust it to my young brother here."

For the first time in his life, M. Folgat had met with a case such as enables a man to rise to eminence—a case which might insure him a great future. In the Valpinson affair all the elements of supreme interest were united—magnitude of crime, eminence of the victim, character of the accused, mystery, variation of opinion, difficulty of defense, and uncertainty of issue—in a word it was one of those cases to which an advocate devotes all his energies, and in which he shares all his client's anxiety and hopes. He would readily have sacrificed five years' income to be intrusted with the management of the defense; but he was, above all, an honest man. Accordingly, he asked: "You would not think of abandoning M. de Boiscoran, M. Magloire?"

"You will be more useful to him than I can be," was the reply.

Perhaps M. Folgat was inwardly of the same opinion. Still he said, "You have not considered what an effect this would have. What would the public think if they heard all of a sudden that you had withdrawn? They would say, 'M. de Boiscoran's affair must be a very bad one indeed, for M. Magloire to refuse to plead for him.' And such a comment would prove an additional blow for the prisoner."

At this point the doctor interposed. "Magloire is not at liberty to withdraw," he said, "but he has the right to associate a brother lawyer with himself. He must remain M. de Boiscoran's advocate and counsel, but M. Folgat can lend him the assistance of his advice, the support of his youth, his activity and eloquence."

A passing blush colored the young lawyer's cheeks. "I am entirely at M. Magloire's service," he said.

The famous advocate of Sauveterre considered awhile. After a few moments he turned to his young colleague, and asked him: "Have you any plan? any ideas? What would you do?"

Then it was that to every one's astonishment, M. Folgat revealed in a measure his true character. He looked taller, his face brightened up, his eyes shone and his voice had a sonorous metallic ring, as he replied: "First of all, I should go and see M. de Boiscoran with the view of arriving at a final decision. Still I have already formed a plan, I, gentlemen, I have faith, as I told you before. I do not believe the man whom Mademoiselle Denise loves to be a criminal. You ask, what would I do?—I would prove the truth of M. de Boiscoran's statement. Can that be done? I hope so. He tells us that there are no proofs nor witnesses of his intimacy with the Countess de Claudieuse. I am sure he is mistaken. She has shown, he says, extraordinary care and prudence. That may be. But mistrust challenges suspicion; and when you take the greatest precautions, you are most likely to be watched. You want to hide, and you are discovered. You see nobody; but others see you. If I were charged with the defense, therefore, I should commence tomorrow a counter-investigation. We have money, the Marquis de Boiscoran has influential connections; and we should have help everywhere. Before 48 hours are over, I should have experienced agents at work. I know the Rue des Vignes at Passy; it is a lonely street; but it has eyes, as all streets have. Why should not some of those eyes have noticed the countess' mysterious visits? My agents would inquire from house to house. Nor would it benecessary to mention names. They would not be charged with a search after the Countess de Claudieuse, but after an unknown lady, dressed so and so; and, if they should discover any one who had seen her, and who could identify her, that man would be our first witness. In the meantime I should go in search of M. de Boiscoran's friend, the Englishman, whose name he assumed; and the London police would aid me in my efforts. If that Englishman is dead, we should hear of it, and it would be a misfortune. If he is only at the other end of the world, the transatlantic cable enables us to question him, and to be answered in a week. I should, at the same time, send detectives after the English maid-servant who attended to the house at the Rue des Vignes. M. de Boiscoran declares that she never even caught a glimpse of the countess. I do not believe it. A servant is naturally curious, and, despite the obstacles thrown in her way, is bound to have seen the woman who visits her master. And that is not all. There were other people who came to the house in the Rue des Vignes. I should examine them one by one—the gardener and his help, the water carrier, the upholsterer, the trades-people's errand boys. Who can say whether one of them is not in possession of the facts which we are seeking? Finally, when a woman has spent so many days in a house, it is almost impossible that she should not have left some traces of her passage behind her. Since then, you will say, there has been the war, and afterwards the Commune. Nevertheless, I should examine the ruins, every tree in the garden, every pane in the windows, if necessary. I should compel the very mirrors that have escaped destruction to give back the image which they have so often reflected."

"Ah, I call that speaking!" cried the doctor, full of enthusiasm.

The others trembled with excitement. They felt that the struggle was commencing. But, unmindful of the impression he had produced, M. Folgat went on: "Here, in Sauveterre, the task would be more difficult; but, in case of success, the result, also, would be more decisive. I should bring down from Paris one of those keen, subtle detectives who have made their profession an art; and I should know how to stimulate his vanity. He, of course, would have to be told everything, even the names; but there would be no danger in that. His desire to succeed, the splendor of the reward, even his professional habits, would be our security. He would come down secretly, concealed under whatever disguise would appear to him most useful for his purpose; and he would recommence for the benefit of the defense, the investigation carried on by M. Galpin for the benefit of the prosecution. Would he discover anything? We can but hope so. I know detectives, who, by the aid of smaller material, have unraveled far deeper mysteries."

(To be Continued Tomorrow.)

Safe Crackers Are Busy.

Early yesterday morning safe crackers entered the office of the Specialty Paint Company, 3209 Liberty avenue and opened a safe with a sledge, taking out $30 in cash, $6 in stamps and checks valued at $300. An effort was made to open another safe, but the intruders were frightened away.

CORDIAL GREETING FOR THE ORCHESTRA

Largest Audience of the Season Welcomes Back Conductor Paur and His Men.

By CHARLES N. BOYD.

Perhaps it was the return of the Pittsburgh orchestra after a month's absence, or perhaps the fact that including this week but three sets of programs remain to be given this season; more likely it was the appearance of two soloists on last evening's concert program that attracted such a large audience to Carnegie Music hall. One soloist, Mr. Campanari, has been heard here many times in concert and opera, and no singer affords more pleasure than this manly baritone. His first number was an aria from Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro"; in the second part of the program he scored a great success with the monologue from Giordano's "Andre Chenier", which is admirably calculated to display Mr. Campanari's art to best advantage. This was followed by the familiar "Toreador's Song"; without which no concert appearance of this singer is deemed complete. Enthusiasm after these two arias ran so high that there seemed to be danger of a conflict on the encore question.

Rudolph Ganz, pianist, practically unknown to the audience, chose for his debut an unfamiliar concerto, Chopin's in E minor. It is grateful to record that few pianists have been more warmly received in the history of these concerts. The key-note of Mr. Ganz' character and playing seems to be straight-forwardness and frankness; there is no unnecessary display of any sort, no exaggeration and no delusions. Technically the concerto presented no difficulties to him, and musically he left nothing to be desired. As he appeared but once on the program an encore was in order, and for this he selected Liszt's "Sonnetto del Petrarca." It is to be hoped Mr. Ganz will be heard here often in the future, for there is need of such piano playing as is displayed by musicians of his type.

The orchestral program began with Dvorak's overture, "In der Natur", which had its first hearing in Pittsburgh at this concert. It is characteristically Dvorak in melody, figuration and orchestral scoring. The orchestra gave a very good account of the work. The choice of Mozart's G minor symphony was appropriate, coming as near as possible to the one hundred and fiftieth celebration of Mozart's birth, which has recently been commemorated by musical societies all over the world. The last two movements were the most enjoyable; the first movement was marred by undue stress in the forte passages, which were out of proportion to the softer phrases. The Andante, one of the most charming movements in orchestral literature, was inclined to be mechanical and lacking in spontaneity. Barring the usual difficulty with the intonation in the opening and closing measures of the Vorspiel, the performance was of more than ordinary worth.

The same program will be repeated this afternoon at 2:15 o'clock, with all seats at the reduced prices of 75 cents and 50 cents, and in view of the interest in last evening's concert the attendance should be very large.

REFUSES MANY LICENSES.

Wholesale Liquor Dealers of Butler Are Turned Down by Judge Galbreath.

BUTLER, PA., March 2.—(Special.)—Judge James M. Galbreath today filed a decree refusing every applicant for wholesale liquor license and the Butler plant of the Independent Brewing Company and granting every applicant for tavern license in Butler.

In his decree Judge Galbreath says the Butler brewery defeated its own application by maintaining a warehouse in Butler in which was stored certain brands of beer manufactured in Pittsburgh and delivered to customers on their order, thus doing a wholesale license business under a brewing license.

School Board Elects Officers.

The annual meeting of the Second ward school board, Allegheny, was held last night in the Sherman avenue school building. Alexander Patterson was elected president and Fleming Jamieson secretary. The resignation of Morgan McCombe, who has removed from the ward, was accepted, and Dr. James McElroy was elected to fill the vacancy.

LEAGUE MANAGERS MEET FOR BUSINESS TODAY

Magnates of the Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia baseball league meet this afternoon at 1 o'clock at the Hotel Henry. A schedule, the work of the schedule committee, will be presented to the club owners for approval. Besides the presentation of this instrument matters of other importance will be discussed. Each manager will give to the president a complete list of players signed and claimed.

Ed White of Wilkinsburg, who played a good game for McKeesport the latter part of last season, has an offer from Punxsutawney, but is holding off. White is a good player. He will sign with the club that offers the best inducements.

Carl Smith, a southpaw pitcher, who was with Cambridge Springs last year, is unengaged.

YORK, PA., March 2.—(Special.)—John Smith, one of Dallastown's best players and formerly manager of the Penn Park team, yesterday accepted an offer from the Steubenville (O.) team of the P. O. and W. Va. team.

Harry Matz of Allegheny, a third baseman, has signed with Ft. Wayne.

Gus Dundon, the Allegheny boy, last season with the Chicago American league team, refuses to go to Louisville, to which club he has been sold.

Jimmy Slagle has reached Chicago in good shape. The Colts will leave for West Baden, Ind., next Tuesday.

The Iowa league will open its season on May 8.

Archie McCarthy, the pitcher drafted by the New York Americans from Montreal, declares that he will play with a team in the "outlaw" league next summer. McCarthy was recently turned back to Montreal, but he says he will not continue in the role of the human checker.

PITTSBURGH'S CHANCE FOR SECOND PLACE

If Locals Beat Portage Lake Tonight They Will Land in Coveted Position.

The last big hockey game of the season will be played in Duquesne garden tonight. It will be the farewell appearance of the Portage Lake and Pittsburgh teams. After the contest the Houghton seven will leave for home, where they still have two games to play with Calumet. Most of the Pittsburgh players will leave for their homes in Canada Sunday. The closing game gives promise of being a memorable one, as both teams are anxious to take the final contest. The Pittsburgh boys still have a chance to land in second place, beating out Portage Lake, and are determined to take tonight's game. Should Pittsburgh win tonight they will have a percentage of .666. If Portage Lake loses tonight and also one of the games against Calumet it will give them a final percentage of .650. The chances are that Portage Lake will lose one, if not both, of the games with Calumet, as Hod Stuart and Campbell of the locals are going to Calumet Sunday night to play for them in the games against the Houghton crowd next week. Portage Lake still believe they can win the championship, and they can if they win the next three games, and will be out to win tonight's contest. This being the last hockey game of the season and its result being so important in the final standing of the clubs, the biggest attendance in the history of the garden is looked for. Lineup:

Portage Lake.		Pittsburgh.
Hern	G	Winchester
Forrester	F	Bathgate
Holden	C. P.	Hod Stuart
Bruce Stuart	C	Campbell
Fright	F	Sixsmith
Hall	R. W.	Kent

All the Giants at Memphis.

MEMPHIS, TENN., March 2.—The last of the members of the New York National league team arrived here today. Manager McGraw is on the ground. The New Yorks will begin practice at once.

AMONG THE BOXERS.

All doubt about Frank Morgan, the local welterweight, and Dick Fitzpatrick of Chicago, coming together in Armory hall next Monday night was removed last night when Matty Fitzpatrick, brother and manager of the Windy City lad, wired that they will positively be here tomorrow morning. The message was an acknowledgement of receipt of transportation which had been forwarded by the Greater Pittsburgh Athletic club. Morgan, as well as other local boxers who are to appear, put in a busy day at training headquarters and all are in condition for hot contests.

Marvin Hart has arrived at his home in Louisville. He confirms the report that he has broken with Tommy Ryan.

Tommy Loughran of East Pittsburgh, who has just recovered from a severe sick spell, is now ready to meet any 115-pound boy in Western Pennsylvania. Young Grim, Morgan, Paenicie or Madden can get a match with him providing they put up a forfeit at this office.

Al Martin left yesterday for Ridgeway, Pa., where on Monday he will meet Fred Walker at 130 pounds ringside.

Kid Lanion, a 110-pound colored lad of Homestead, is pretty well thought of. He is said to be speedy and a hard hitter. He is managed by William Mitchell, who is ready to back him against any 110-pounder.

FUNDED DEBT.

The amount of funded debt, including mortgages, real estate and ground rents, December 31, 1905, was $191,862,447 49, being an increase of $74,670,449 26.

The amount of consolidated mortgage bonds shows a reduction of $37,414,220, due to the fact that $28,000 of the bonds maturing May 1, 1948, were retired under the sinking fund provisions of the mortgage, and that of the $27,480,020 of bonds heretofore issued under said mortgage and which matured June 15 and July 1, 1905, $27,388,220 had been presented for payment up to December 31, leaving $86,800 outstanding. The funds necessary for the payment of the consolidated mortgage bonds were obtained from the proceeds of the convertible bonds heretofore authorized by the shareholders.

Under the authority referred to, an issue was made of one hundred million dollars of these securities, under date of October 2, 1905, bearing interest at 3½ per cent, maturing in 10 years, and convertible at any time after December 1, 1905, into capital stock at the rate of $70 per share. They are subject to redemption at par on December 1, 1910, or at any subsequent interest period on 30 days' notice, but when called may be converted into stock up to 20 days prior to the date named for redemption. Of these bonds $2,500 had been so converted up to December 31, 1905, leaving outstanding $99,994,500. Conversions were also made of $212,500 of the 10-year 3½ per cent convertible bonds issued November 1, 1902, the amount outstanding being $20,480,000.

There also appear on the balance sheet as a result of the absorption of the Pittsburgh, Virginia and Charleston railway the $6,000,000 of bonds therstofore issued by that company.

In consequence of the maturity of the consolidated mortgage bonds already referred to, there was a reduction in the amount to be set apart out of the net income for the redemption of the outstanding bonds secured by that mortgage, to $126,450. This sum was placed to the credit of the trustees of the sinking fund, for investment under the terms of the mortgage. There were $1,865,462 75 in securities and cash in the fund at the close of the year. The assets released through the payment of the bonds maturing June and July, 1905, amounting to $8,089,746 76 were turned over to your treasury, and appear on the balance sheet. Against the credit to profit and loss resulting therefrom, were charged the discount on the convertible bonds not taken by the shareholders under the option given them in March last, and which were subsequently sold in the open market, viz., $5,000,000, and also the sum of $3,000,000, which was appropriated toward the cost of your terminal passenger station in New York, the balance being applied in reduction of the value of securities and outstanding accounts, and against advances made to the Western New York and Pennsylvania Railway and other subsidiary companies.

SECURITIES OF OTHER CORPORATIONS.

The entire cost of the securities of other corporations held by your company December 31, 1905, was $236,894,457 15, and the direct revenue received therefrom during the year was $10,018,026 22, being nearly 4½ per cent upon the cost thereof.

It will be noted that your holdings of Pennsylvania Company stock show an increase of $20,000,000, it having been deemed advisable to broaden the stock basis of that company, in order to enable it to provide the betterments and improvements required by the largely increased traffic of your western system.

CAR TRUSTS.

There were no car trust securities issued during the year.

The total number of car trust cars now in service is 54,963, and the car trust certificates outstanding December 31, 1905, aggregate $33,100,000.

TRAFFIC.

The number of tons of freight moved on the four grand divisions east of Pittsburgh and Erie in 1905 was 157,063,767, an increase of 23,537,342, or 17.64 per cent; the number of passengers was 55,781,908, an increase of 4,018,439, or 7.76 per cent.

The other railroad companies east of Pittsburgh and Erie in which your company is interested show satisfactory results. Detailed statements of their operations will be found in their respective annual reports, as well as in the full report of your company.

CAPITAL STOCK AND FUNDED DEBT—LINES WEST OF PITTSBURGH.

The $50,000,000 issue of temporary collateral obligations made by the Pennsylvania company to meet the heavy capital expenditures on the lines west of Pittsburgh was paid off at maturity, October 1, 1905. As heretofore noted, the capital stock of the company was increased by an additional issue of $20,000,000, the total now amounting to $60,000,000. It will be noted that after paying a dividend of 5 per cent for the past year, making large contributions to its various sinking funds, and transferring $2,000,000 to an extraordinary expenditure fund, the company carried substantial balance to the credit of its profit and loss account.

For the purpose of retiring $5,927,000 funded indebtedness of the St. Louis, Vandalia & Terre Haute and Terre Haute and Logansport Railway Companies, constituent organizations of the consolidated Vandalia Railroad Company, and for other corporate purposes, an issue was made by the latter company of $7,000,000 of its 50-year four per cent consolidated mortgage bonds, maturing February 1, 1956.

In pursuance of an agreement with the Erie & Pittsburgh Railroad Company, under date of November 1, 1905, your company has arranged to provide the sinking fund installments required by the general mortgage of that company of July 1, 1890, the Erie & Pittsburgh Railroad Company agreeing to deliver from time to time its 3½ per cent debentures at par to the amount of the outstanding general mortgage bonds to exchange new mortgage bonds to be issued in lieu thereof, per for par, for the debentures so delivered to your company prior thereto.

In pursuance of an agreement of consolidation, duly approved by the boards of directors and shareholders of the two companies, the Pittsburgh, Youngstown & Ashtabula and the New Castle & Beaver Valley Railroad Companies have been consolidated into the Pittsburgh, Youngstown & Ashtabula Railway Company, taking effect as of January 1, 1906. This consolidation merges into one ownership the lines leading from Kenwood, Homewood and Alliance Junction on the Pittsburgh, Ft. Wayne & Chicago railway to Ashtabula on Lake Erie, and insures an economical and harmonious administration of the property.

CAPITAL EXPENDITURES.

The amount of capital expenditures during the year on the lines west of Pittsburgh for construction, equipment and real estate was $10,005,924 75.

Further large expenditures were made upon the Pittsburgh, Ft. Wayne & Chicago railway by the elevation and depression of tracks to avoid grade crossings at the cities of Chicago and Allegheny, in the construction of third, fourth and fifth tracks and of sidings at various points, and in the extension and improvement of terminal yards.

A liberal outlay was also required for double tracking, yards, docks and other terminal facilities on the Cleveland & Pittsburgh, Pittsburgh, Youngstown & Ashtabula, and other lines in your Northwest system. On the Southwestern system the same policy was pursued in regard to the track elevation in Chicago, the further extension of second tracks between Columbus and Indianapolis, the construction of other additional main tracks and sidings, and the improvement of yards at terminal points.

There was also a considerable increase in the locomotive and car equipment on both systems.

TRAFFIC.

The number of tons of freight moved on the lines west of Pittsburgh was 182,230,918, an increase of 20,603,864. The number of passengers carried was 28,841,119, an increase of 469,867.

The gross earnings of all lines east and west of Pittsburgh for the year 1905 were $256,-669,567 76; operating expenses, $199,160,945 42, and net earnings, $78,869,949 34, an increase in gross earnings, compared with 1904, of $28,-853,177 63, and an increase in net earnings of $8,362,289 37. There were 382,611,237 tons of freight moved, being an increase of 48,191,297 tons, and 126,084,223 passengers carried, an increase of 5,668,095.

GENERAL REMARKS.

The tonnage shows an exceptional increase both in volume and mileage over that of 1904, the traffic for the year being much the heaviest in the history of the company, and by reason of the liberal expenditures recently made in the construction of relief lines and large terminal yards and the substantial additions made to your motive power, the movement thereof has been materially improved. The gross earnings of the lines west of Pittsburgh and Erie show a large gain, and the prosperous conditions prevailing in the country are reflected throughout the entire system.

There was a slight reduction in the average rate, and also in the net earnings per ton per mile, but owing to the volume of traffic carried, there was a large gain in the freight revenue. There was an increase in the expenses in all departments, and notably in that of maintenance of equipment, due to the outlays necessary to keep your motive power and equipment up to the requirements of the traffic. It will be seen, however, that after meeting all liabilities and paying the regular dividend of 6 per cent, the surplus income was sufficient to provide for the instalments due on the principal of the outstanding car trusts, $3,249,358 43, and for $8,424,881 37 the extraordinary expenditure for the year.

The heaviest outlay during the past year was upon the low grade freight line from New Haven to Glenloch. The work was prosecuted vigorously, and the sections between York Haven and Columbus and between Atglen and Parkersburg are now in service. Between Columbia and Atglen and between Thorndale and Glenloch, the grading is rapidly approaching completion, and the entire road will be finished in the early spring.

Additional expenditures have also been made upon the yards operated at Enola in connection with this line, and facilities provided at Thorndale and Denholm on the Philadelphia and Middle divisions, through which four freight tr

READ THE REALTY NEWS COLUMNS TODAY.
It's a good thing to get acquainted. It's a good time to get acquainted, while the warm spring sunshine sort of thaws out one's bad feelings. There are no two classes of people in the city to whom pleasant acquaintance is more important and more valuable than the real estate fraternity on the one hand and the buying and renting public on the other. It's partly to facilitate this getting acquainted and partly to bring to modest notice the men who are largely responsible for Greater Pittsburgh's growth and prosperity that The Gazette will show in its real estate news columns daily for a few months the likenesses of the realty brokers of this great community, which has but very few equals as a real estate mart in the country.

THE GRAIN MARKET CONTINUES WEAK

Rain and Snow in Winter Wheat Section Has Weakening Effect.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, March 2.—During the first hour of trading sentiment in the wheat pit favored higher prices, there being a fairly active demand by commission houses and shorts. A steady market at Liverpool, notwithstanding the sharp decline here of yesterday and the official forecast of a cold wave throughout portions of the west and southwest, also encouraged the bulls. Later, however, the effect of the cold wave prediction was offset by numerous reports of a heavy fall of snow or rain in various portions of the wheat belt. As the session advanced trade became dull, with prices moving slightly in either direction. The situation in the northwest presented the same bearish feature as yesterday, with accumulating stocks of wheat and an extremely dull demand for flour. Late in the day the market became decidedly weak, chiefly because of an optimistic view of the crop situation as expressed by a trade journal. There was quite general selling during the last half hour and the market closed weak with prices at the lowest point of the day. May opened unchanged to a shade higher at 80¼@80⅜c to 80⅝c, sold between 80⅛@80⅜c and closed at 80⅛c. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 415,000 bushels. Exports for the week as shown by Bradstreet's were equal to 2,330,000 bushels. Primary receipts were 372,000 bushels, against the same amount one year ago. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 390 cars, against 775 cars last week and 252 cars one year ago.

The corn market was steady all day, chiefly because of reports of wet weather throughout the middle west. Pit traders and cash houses were active buyers early in the day, but later the demand slackened materially. Selling was chiefly by commission houses. The market closed steady. May opened a shade higher at 43c, sold between 42⅞@43⅛@43¼c and closed at 43@43⅛c. Local receipts were 168 cars, with five of contract grade.

The price of oats held steady throughout the day, but the volume of business was small and trading was largely confined to local operators. May opened a shade to ⅛c higher at 29⅝@29¾c to 30c and advanced to 30⅛@30⅜c, and closed at 30⅛c. Local receipts were 127 cars.

Provisions opened weak because of a 10c decline in the price of live hogs. A decrease of local contract stocks caused active buying and for the remainder of the session a firm tone prevailed. Packers were the chief buyers. At the close May pork was up 15c at $13 32½. Lard was up 2½c at $7 77½@7 80. Ribs were a shade higher at $8 10@8 12½.

Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat, 3 cars; corn, 288 cars; oats, 178 cars; hogs, 20,000 head.

The leading futures, as reported by Messrs. Armstrong & Co., Farmers Bank building, Pittsburgh, members of the Chicago board of trade, range as follows:

Pastor Russell's Logic Is Sound.

"If the Bible does teach that eternal torture is the fate of all except the saints, it should be preached—thundered—weekly, daily, hourly. If it does not so teach, the fact should be shown; and the foul stain dishonoring the Holy Name be removed."

Few would dispute this logic; and yet few follow the course indicated. It is a fact, as Pastor Russell asserts, that intelligent people are abandoning the eternal torture dogma and believing it to be a Bible teaching, are abandoning the scriptures, too; they could not consistently do otherwise. No wonder, then, that Pastor Russell's Bible studies are a "cure for infidelity," and that so many denominate them "Bible keys" which unlock its hitherto mysteries.

As scientific works of a century ago are now obsolete in the clearer light of our day, so it may soon be along theological lines. Why not? Do not the majority of us admit a period of "dark ages" with clearer light before and since? Are we sure that nothing remains to be learned? If so, why study the Bible? Many are saying: We appreciate Pastor C. T. Russell's logic and his loyalty to the Bible, and his sermons published every Monday are being appreciated by increasing thousands, to their declared spiritual profit.

Pastor Russell's topic next Sunday evening, 7:30 o'clock, Pittsburgh Carnegie music hall, is a startling one, yet we may be sure that it will be reverent, interesting and profitable. We advise those desiring choice seats to go early. Wheeling papers relate that hundreds were turned away after 2,000 had been packed into their largest auditorium. It was the same at Canton, O., last Sunday and at other places where this lecture was given previously. Fortunately Carnegie hall is quite commodious.

NEWS FROM THE MINES.

Confirmation of the report that the Pittsburgh Bullfrog has made a second profitable strike within a week has been received in Pittsburgh. This second vein is seven feet wide, composed of quartz and white talc, which is the identical Shoshone formation, and indicates that the Shoshone vein crosses the Pittsburgh Bullfrog ground.

An unconfirmed report was received in Pittsburgh yesterday that the Lake Superior & Pittsburgh had made an important strike of rich copper.

BUTTE, MONT.—The Raven Mining Company has made a big ore discovery in the East End drift on the north vein on the 1,500 foot level crosscut which was run south to intercept the main Snoozer discovery vein and which has been cut through four feet wide, opening five feet of rich copper ore that averages 5 to 6 per cent copper with 2 per cent additional each side of good ore.

The February output of the Alloucz mine was 419,640 pounds of mineral. The rock contained an average of 37.318 pounds of mineral per ton.

The February output of the Centennial mine was 383,395 pounds of mineral. The rock contained an average of 22.78 pounds of mineral per ton.

Engineers of the Guggenheim Exploration Company, a Salt Lake dispatch says, are now at Ely, Nev., examining the properties of the Nevada Consolidated Company. Some months ago the Guggenheims, through their field representative, George Gunn, acquired a large acreage of mineralized territory at Ely surrounding the Nevada Consolidated Company, and formed the Cumberland-Ely Mining Company, with 1,000,000 shares, par value $5. Mr. Bell, private secretary to Daniel Guggenheim, is president of this company, and the American Smelting & Refining people control 51 per cent of the stock. It is understood that the Cumberland-Ely Company has options upon large blocks of stock in the Nevada Consolidated Company, which will be exercised if the reports of the Guggenheim engineers are favorable.

BOSTON, March 2.—Market closed dull and weak, following continued liquidation in Amalgamated. Franklin advanced to 20¾ on a report of 480 tons product for February, and later declined to 19 on correction to 408 tons. Wolverine strong all day on investment buying. Considering weakness in A. C. P. our market held fairly well, but we cannot see anything to bull stocks on while money is so firm.

OPEN WEATHER BRINGS PROFITS TO MERCHANT

Numerous Inquiries for Green Stuff and Young Onions Prove Very Popular.

Another day of open weather brought more trading to the produce markets, and all of the dealers report good business. There were numerous inquiries during the day for green stuff of all kinds and in these lines several good sales were made. Young onions were a popular article, and a number of the merchants disposed of their entire stock before the market closed. The recent advance in this line is being easily sustained despite the fact the goods presented are of just medium quality.

There have been several changes in the grocery market during the last few days, and more are predicted. The advance of sugar on the New York market, noted in this paper yesterday morning, appears not to have changed the local market, and the quotations of Thursday are still being given out. It is thought today, however, the local market will also go up. All grades of flour dropped 5 points yesterday and a drop is expected in coffee by the first of next week.

The egg situation remains unchanged. There is no market for storage eggs, and as was noted yesterday a number of merchants have quit quoting them. The demand for fresh eggs is just fair and advices as to supplies in transit are conflicting. There was no change in the quotations of fresh eggs yesterday. The butter market is about the same.

The clover seed market has been wild and for the past ten days quite erratic. Ten days ago redcleaned western clover reached the highest point in years, namely $9 25 per bushel. It is easier and lower now, but as the season is almost here when the farmer is compelled to buy, the prices are not likely to go down until after seeding. Timothy is a little easier but in good demand.

HAY AND GRAIN.

RECEIPTS.

Receipts bulletined yesterday were: Pennsylvania, 5 cars hay, 4 cars oats, 1 car corn, 1 car straw; Baltimore & Ohio, 1 car hay; Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, 2 cars hay, 2 cars corn.

There is no change of note in the general market. Receipts are not so heavy, which gives dealers an opportunity to work off surplus. As soon as the tracks are cleared higher prices may be looked for.

STOCKS LESS ACTIVE AND PRICES IRREGULAR

The Market Closed Relatively Better for the Railroads Than the Industrials—Local Securities Dull and Lower.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

The New York stock market yesterday was dull and irregular until late in the afternoon, when a covering movement in Union Pacific caused a fair rally and prices closed above the lowest. The railroads were relatively firmer than the industrials. The trading as a whole, however, was very professional. During the first half of the session only 323,000 shares changed hands. The total for the day was 558,000 shares.

While the pressure of liquidation abated somewhat, the sentiment of the street remained bearish. A house representing a prominent western clique seemed to be as much at sea regarding the immediate future of prices as the general public. During the early part of the day this house was credited with being a heavy seller. Purchases by the same house during the late trading was credited with turning the market in an upward direction. Commission houses reported that the public was doing little. Foreign markets were a little firmer, and London traders were reported to have bought moderately, but the business from that source could not be said to have been an influential factor.

Union Pacific was again the most active stock, and after selling down to 149⅞, rallied to 151¾ and closed with a net gain of 1 per cent. Northern Pacific and Great Northern preferred sympathized with this rally and closed higher, but the remainder of the list showed little change. Stocks like St. Paul, Southern Pacific, Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio closed absolutely unchanged, compared with the day before. Reading was heavy, closing 1¼ lower, and New York Central closed at a net loss of ¾ per cent. Wabash preferred closed 1¾ per cent lower, while the common and Missouri Pacific closed unchanged.

The entire industrial group was weak during the greater part of the day. In the early trading the pressure against Consolidated Gas continued and the stock sold down to 152. Later it recovered to 156 and closed at 154¼. Amalgamated Copper opened at 107¾ to 107⅞, and at one time sold as low as 104⅝. The close was at 106, a loss for the day of 1⅜ per cent. American Smelting and National Lead, which have been moving in unison of late, declined in the early dealings, but subsequently recovered all the loss and closed a fraction higher.

United States Steel common closed ½ and the preferred ⅝ lower. The minor iron and steel stocks all closed lower, the largest declines being in Republic Iron and Steel common and preferred.

The day was almost barren of news, so far as its effect upon prices was concerned. A number of railroad reports were published, showing that earnings were being well maintained, and reports of the iron and steel trade continued favorable, but this kind of news has for the time being lost its influence. It is an old story. So far as known, no progress was made in any of the impending deals, and in the present temper of national and state law-makers it is not likely that any important deals will be pushed to consummation. The principal topic in the street was the outlook for money. The rates for call loans ranged between 4½ to 6 per cent, with an average above 5 per cent. If the forecasts can be relied upon today's bank statement will show a loss of between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000 cash, unless there has been a considerable reduction in loans. In this connection there was a rumor in the street that a house handling large speculative accounts had liquidated $8,000,000 loans during the week.

There was very little animation in the local stock market except in the unlisted mining shares which are quoted on the curb. On the exchange the bulk of the dealings was also in mining shares. Tonopah Extension rallied to 11¾ and closed at 11½ bid, a gain of 50 cents a share. Nearly 10,000 shares Ohio Tonopah changed hands at 58 to 61 cents. United Copper was weak, declining to 66⅝, but recovering to 68⅞ at the close.

The selling pressure on Manufacturers Light and Heat disappeared and the stock recovered to 31 bid at the close. The other natural gas stocks were dull and unchanged. Pittsburgh Coal preferred rallied to 66¼, but closed lower at 65½ bid, 66⅞ asked. The other coal stocks were neglected. Crucible Steel common closed unchanged at 14¾, but the preferred lost ½ per cent, closing at 77¼. There was nothing doing in the Westinghouse stocks. Independent Brewing bonds were in good demand and advanced to 106½.

LIQUIDATION KEEPS TO ITS BUSY RECORD

Wall Street Reaches Conclusion That Big Men of Finance Are Unloaded.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, March 2.—The Herald this (Saturday) morning says:

Stocks yesterday were highly irregular, showing no definite tendency for any interval together, but recovering somewhat at the close. But even in this late improvement there was no uniformity, and there appeared to be nearly as many weak as strong features. Business was almost entirely professional, except for a continuance of liquidation, some apparently voluntary and of a slow dribbling nature, and some other of an enforced character, influenced by exhausted margins, or representing the selling of weary bull traders.

Speculative sentiment, while mixed, was preponderantly bearish. As to this the traders took their cue apparently from the action of the market itself. The rallying power, after the long continued and extensive decline, was relatively so feeble that brokers suspected that important interests had sold out much stock and were not opposing the decline.

The chiefly important news of the day, the decision of Secretary Shaw to deposit $10,000,000 of public money in the banks, was not generally known until after the close of business. The sharp advance in United States bonds before the close would, however, seem to indicate prior knowledge or shrewd guessing upon the part of some one as to the treasury action, and they might have had some influence, also, in the late recovery of a few issues.

However, Wall street, as a whole, was ignorant of the treasury action, and the market for the greater part of the day flopped around in an aimless fashion, the whole list or specific issues declining or recovering, at intervals, with little or no reference to anything in particular, and influenced by unlisted.

Railway traffic reports, which came to hand were, as a rule, excellent. Fears of a bad bank statement held trading in repression, but the money market itself showed an easier tendency.

Foreign advices seemed better, and foreigners were reported as buyers here.

The following is the latest report, dated February 23, 1906, from the

KEYSTONE-NEVADA MINES

"We have enough ore in sight to justify the erection of a 20-stamp mill. "By the time the mill is completed, the connection will have been made between No. 4 tunnel and No. 5 incline and a raise made from No. 1 to No. 2 tunnel. There is a vast amount of milling ore in No. 3 tunnel and at least 1,200 tons of milling ore on No. 3 dump. On No. 2 dump there are 2,300 tons of the same class of ore and hundreds of tons of high-grade ore sacked in the various workings. Your property is certainly a great mine, and with time and money will make one of the greatest in Nevada."

NOTES AND COMMENT.

Developments in the New York money market were rather in favor of stocks and the tone of the call money market was appreciably easier, in spite of the extra demand incident to Friday's operations, which carry over until Monday under the rules of the stock exchange. The estimates made an from reports by the banks of the week's currency movement indicates some receipts on balance from the interior by the express movement. In spite of the current reports of very heavy shipments by that means. These reports pointed to the remittance of nearly three-quarters of a million dollars Thursday and Friday to Chicago alone. New York bankers asserted that the movement was normal and had no special cause growing out of the recent slight disturbances in Chicago banking affairs. On the week it was said that the withdrawal of $5,793,000 by the sub-treasury had been sufficiently offset by the movement from the interior to bring down the net decrease in cash for the week to below $5,000,000.

A special cause for the week's drain on bank reserves was pointed out in the expiration on February 24 of the three-year interval since the re-chartering of some 250 national banks, which placed upon those banks the obligation to deposit lawful money with the treasury covering the amount of notes under their old charters which had not yet come in for redemption. The amount thus deposited with the treasury for the month of February was $7,148,000, almost all of which was paid in the last week of February and almost entirely by the New York banks on account of their interior correspondents. That this operation was an important influence on the New York money market is easily seen. The demand for credits, however, is not confined to the call loan market and loans for periods up to ninety days were made yesterday again at 5½ per cent. Foreign exchange also continued to decline, although discounts are hard in London and sterling exchange fell back in Paris. The week's exports of corn declined 656,000 bushels from last week and suggested a question how far the recent enormous export movement was due to apprehension of the going into effect on March 1 of the discriminative tariff measures by Germany.

Pittsburgh Oil and Gas bonds were offered on the exchange at 95 and accrued interest.

In the curb market McClure & Way were the largest buyers of Black Hills, taking one block of 5,000 shares at 35c from R. G. Hall.

The advance in Tonopah Extension yesterday originated in New York, where the erroneous report was published that the directors had declared a monthly dividend of 10 cents a share. The stock closed in that market at 11½ bid, 11¾ asked.

Sales of Manufacturers' Light and Heat slightly exceeded 600 shares at 20½ to 21 and the stock closed at 21 bid. Brokers are in receipt of numerous inquiries from out-of-town holders as to the cause of the recent decline. They have no trustworthy explanation to offer, and no information is obtainable in official circles. On the contrary, officers of the company affirm that earnings are being maintained, despite the mild winter, and that the number of consumers is now larger than ever before. The suggestion that the company might be contemplating some plan for financing its floating debt receives no encouragement in quarters which should be familiar with its policy.

Hudson River Electric Power Company earnings for January, 1906, reported by E. H. Gray & Company, show a large increase. The gross earnings were $76,936, an increase of over 27 per cent, as compared with the previous January, and the net earnings were $40,217, an increase of over 31 per cent. During the six months up to the end of January, 1906, net earnings were at the rate of $432,191 per year. The percentage of operating expense to earnings has been still further reduced as the properties progress toward completion, and now is only about 48 per cent.

According to R. G. Dun & Company commercial failures in the month of February were 938 in number and $10,859,619 in amount of defaulted indebtedness. This compares with 1,013 failures in the corresponding month last year when liabilities were $9,758,370. While the amount involved was about a million dollars more than in the same month last year, it was $5,000,000 smaller than in February, 1904, and also compared favorably with the three preceding years, while the number of failures was the smallest in over a decade, with the exception of 1899 and 1900. Manufacturing failures were 223 in number and $4,653,832 in amount, against 234 last year for $3,826,854. Improvement was most striking in trading failures, 685 comparing with 749 last year and liabilities of $3,568,381 falling much below the $5,413,983 in February, 1905. The increase in liabilities was provided by the third class, embracing brokerage, real estate and insurance, $2,628,908 largely exceeding the $539,533 in the previous year, although the number of failures in this class was the same in each year.

The directors of the General Chemical Company decided to issue one million dollars of preferred stock to all stockholders, both of the preferred and common, at par, in proportion to their respective holdings on March 22, of this year.

The Pennsylvania railroad made a fine statement for January. On lines directly operated gross earnings increased $2,752,400 and net increased $1,480,800. On lines west of Pittsburgh and Erie gross earnings increased $985,200 and net increased $492,500.

The Rock Island system, including the St. Louis & San Francisco, reports for January: Gross earnings, $7,750,487, an increase of $1,288,855; net earnings, $1,258,488, an increase of $201,958.

Gross earnings of Chicago Great Western for January increased $92,269 and net increased $36,012.

The time for receiving deposits of traction stocks in the New York deal has been extended to March 16. Wall street continues to adversely criticise the merger.

Gross earnings of Chicago & Alton for January increased $217,448, and net increased $109,309.

The Associated Merchants' Company reports for six months, ended February 1, last: Net profits, $738,505, against $568,599 in the same period in previous year; it reports a surplus of $145,267, against $96,813 in the previous year.

The regular quarterly dividend of 1¼ per cent on American Can preferred is payable April 2.

The Railway Steel Spring Company has declared the regular semi-annual dividend of 2 per cent on its common stock, payable April 3.

The Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railway has declared a dividend of 1¼ per cent, payable April 2.

Swift & Company have declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent on its capital stock, payable April 2. This includes the new issue of stock, which was authorized a few months ago.

The Union National Bank will move March 17 to 217 Fourth avenue, the old home of the Merchants and Manufacturers' bank. This will be the home of the Union National until its new office building at Fourth and Wood is completed.

The interest that has developed in this city by the phenomenal success of Charles M. Schwab in the Nevada gold fields, is indicated by the arrival at the Hotel Henry of Joseph J. Bamberger of the New York firm of O. F. Jonasson & Co. Mr. Bamberger comes for the purpose of selecting a desirable location for opening a Pittsburgh office. The Pittsburgh stock exchange, perhaps more of these securities than any other eastern center excepting New York itself, and the firm of O. F. Jonasson & Co. were the pioneers in forecasting and selecting the particular properties which have since proven most profitable. Mr. Bamberger has just returned from an extensive tour of the Bullfrog, Tonopah, Goldfield and Manhattan districts, accompanied by the firm's expert mining engineer, who has made a personal examination of many of the best known properties there. He is, in consequence, primed with accurate information secured at the seat of action. Senator William A. Clark's Salt Lake & Los Angeles railroad has now reached Indian creek, and will very soon be completed across the heart of the new gold country.

Operating Expenses and Taxes	908,891
Net Earnings	$ 721,623
Bond Interest	353,391

During every year since the Company was organized, both gross and net earnings have shown an uninterrupted and satisfactory increase. The gross and net earnings for the past four years (together with an estimate for 1906) have been officially reported as follows:

	1902	1903	1904	1905	Estimated 1906
Gross Earnings	$1,076,767	$1,311,851	$1,424,145	$1,630,514	$1,850,000
Net Earnings	466,717	573,825	602,453	721,623	852,500

Dividends at the rate of six per cent have been paid on the $2,500,000 Preferred Stock of the Company since its organization, and at the rate of three per cent. in 1903, and four per cent in 1904 and 1905, on $3,500,000 Common Stock. The Preferred Stock is now quoted at approximately $105 and the Common Stock at approximately $93 per share.

The physical condition of the property of the Birmingham Railway, Light & Power Company is excellent. The street railway lines are all well built and of solid construction, and all but 21.3 miles are laid with from 60 to 100-lb. rails. The gas and electric light plants are modern in construction and equipment, and of capacity sufficient to provide for a large increase in business.

Practically the entire Birmingham district, frequently spoken of as "The Pittsburgh of the South" is underlaid with enormous deposits of coal, iron and limestone, rendering it possible to manufacture pig iron cheaper than anywhere else in the world. No city in the south has better railroad transportation facilities and in magnitude of tonnage produced, the Birmingham district is stated to exceed that of the entire State of Georgia. Since 1900 the population of the city of Birmingham has increased over 43%, while bank deposits have increased over 114% and postal receipts over 112%.

ROAD NOT AFTER CHURCH AVENUE

The Torrance Ordinances Look Toward Widening of Stockton Avenue and South Park.

PITCAIRN TO RETIRE MAY 31

Pennsylvania railroad interests are not worrying over any opposition that may come from Allegheny citizens regarding South park matters. The railroad will erect a large office building and freight warehouse on its property in Church avenue between Federal and Anderson streets, the office building to be on the Federal street end of the strip. No ordinance has ever been presented into Allegheny councils by which the railroad company was to gain a foot more of ground for this station than it now owns from the elevated trackage to the line of Church avenue. An ordinance was presented in the North Side councils for vacating Church avenue, but along with this ordinance was another for widening Stockton avenue from Federal street to Union avenue and widening South park over the site of Church avenue. Francis J. Torrance presented both of these ordinances last July 22. He said then in explanation of the ordinances that they did not emanate from railroad interests or influences, and that if the Pennsylvania railroad did not consent to giving up its half of Church avenue for the South park extension he would not favor either ordinance being passed.

"I presented an ordinance several months ago," said Mr. Torrence yesterday, when he was asked about the Church avenue vacation for the railroad company and other matters pertaining thereto, "and it was primarily my own action. I had conferred with the authorities of the Allegheny General hospital, and it is entirely proper that consideration should be given to this valuable institution. There is no need of both of the streets—Church avenue and Stockton avenue—so close together. The city does not need Church avenue as a thoroughfare, and I understand that the Pennsylvania interests have intimated it is immaterial whether the avenue is vacated or not. Stockton avenue should be made the same width east and west of Federal street. South park should be improved. It has been an eyesore, just as the west end of the park was. It has been the loafing place for objectionable characters, of which the best description can be given by the 'front office men.' Decent people do not habit South park, except possibly to take a short cut in walking. I would like to see the park improved, and if it is done in the right way, without walks and without benches, it will be a place of beauty for the city and the hospital will no longer be an eyesore and loafing place.

"In reference to the opposition that was put up politically in the late campaign about the city giving the Pennsylvania company property valued at from $500,000 to $1,000,000, there is but one thing to say. That property, which was the west end of South park, was only 58 feet wide; at $10,000 a front foot in Federal street, that strip would have been worth only $580,000. At the west end it runs to a point. It was an eyesore always, and the giving of it to the Pennsylvania company will redound to the city's good. For instance, the railroad is spending more than $500,000 on its passenger terminal there, instead of about $200,000, as was promised when the ordinance giving the strip was made. Further, the Pennsylvania system is spending between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000 on the Allegheny improvements, which are all for the betterment of the North Side, instead of the $2,000,000 that was estimated when the ordinances giving the right for the improvements were passed."

Robert Pitcairn said the Pennsylvania had not presented, nor had presented for it, an ordinance for the vacation of Church avenue.

City Solicitor Stephen G. Porter is quoted as saying that "a number of well-known North Side citizens will go into court and institute injunction proceedings to restrain the railroad from doing any further work on the west side of Federal street." It was sensationally reported that the Pennsylvania intended to use South park and Church avenue for a freight yard. The Pennsylvania, according to official information, intends to use the property in Church avenue from Federal to Anderson street for a freight house and office building. These will be modern and of such architecture as to beautify the district. A number of the old houses have been demolished. It is expected that construction of the new railroad buildings will begin in a short time.

"R. P." Retires May 31, 1906.

Robert Pitcairn and the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will sever an active connection of 55 years on May 31. Asked last evening about his possible retirement this summer, Mr. Pitcairn said:

"I don't know a thing about it. There has been no notice sent to me yet to quit, anyway."

"Well, Mr. Pitcairn, will not the pension rules apply to you, just as they did to Mr. Brown, who retired as chief engineer last Wednesday?" was asked.

"The laws are made and say so," said Mr. Pitcairn, smiling, "but a fellow does not like to know that he is growing old."

And Mr. Pitcairn appeared in better health, with clear, live complexion, than he has been seen in for a long time. Except for his slightly bowed shoulders—which have borne many a difficult problem in Pennsylvania and Pittsburgh affairs—and his silvering hair, "Uncle Robert" might have been taken for his youthful self of a quarter of a century, and possibly more, ago. He was born at Johnstone, Scotland, 69 years ago last May 6, and will therefore reach the age limit of the Pennsylvania's pension system laws at the end of the coming May.

He became a messenger boy in 1848 at Pittsburgh, working later at Steubenville and entering the service of the Pennsylvania in July, 1853. In his early railroad career he inaugurated running trains by telegraph orders and laid the foundations for present disciplinary and train rules. It is little wonder that he is considered today the pre-eminent authority on these subjects and is chairman of the train rules committee of the American Railway association. He long ago stamped his powerful and original personality on the Pittsburgh division of the Pennsylvania, and this division has ever since been a school for railroaders. He has trained many men, but there will never be another "R. P." It may be that some of his pupils have outwitted him in certain lines, but the schoolmaster remains as the best all-round railroad man of the school. He has done much for Pittsburgh and will not be forgotten for his interest in the public good. But he hasn't yet retired, and much more good may be expected from him for the railroad and the state.

Simon Cameron Long, superintendent of the Pittsburgh division, is one of the men mentioned as Mr. Pitcairn's successor, but it is probable that this title of "resident assistant to the president" will be abolished. Mr. Pitcairn was offered many titled offices and might have been retiring as president next May if he had willed it.

Immense Traffic on B. & O.

"The Baltimore & Ohio is doing things in the traffic line these days," remarked an officer of that company yesterday in conversation with a friend. An observant eye, while traveling on the road or while visiting its terminals, will disclose the reason for the revenue. This prosperity will be shared with Pittsburgh, the new stations, freight and passenger, to be a part of it. Eventually new stations will be provided in Allegheny, although no plans have been started for the latter.

Calls Session for 2-Cent Law.

Word was received in Pittsburgh yesterday that Gov. Hanly has issued a call for an extra session of the Indiana legislature in April to consider the 2-cent passenger rate for railroad traveling. The Maryland legislature is now considering a 2-cent bill. It would not be surprising to hear of a Pennsylvania call for legislation on the same subject. Rate legislation will not put out of existence, however, the Central Passenger association, as that body has other matters than rates to consider.

Railroad Notes.

The Pennsylvania has not yet secured quarters for its city passenger and ticket offices.

The Rock Island will suspend an order requiring bonds from passenger conductors.

J. B. Fox, superintendent of the commissary department of the Wabash lines east of Toledo, was here from Canton conferring with Assistant General Passenger Agent Kelley.

H. W. Jackson, general agent of the Colorado Midland, was a visitor from Chicago.

In the Oil Fields

Operators in the lower southwest fields are not enthused over recent discoveries in any of the old or new fields. The desire for new producing territory has not diminished, nor has the search for it been entirely abandoned. With the return of spring and good roads the search will be renewed with energy. The demand for crude of high grade is not diminishing, notwithstanding the stocks in the middle west fields are increasing. Within the past two years there has been many efforts made to locate new pools outside of the old producing districts, but they have in every instance proven futile. There has been considerable wildcatting far in advance to the southwest, and nothing has resulted but the discovery of light gas territory. The Big Lime pool, near Milton, Cabell county, had much to do with encouraging operators to go outside of the old and well-beaten paths for new producing territory. Confronted with failures there is nothing left but to search for small pools or extensions to the old fields.

In the Fallen Timber Run development, in Grant district, Wetzel county, the Parker & Edwards Oil Company has drilled its No. 10 on the D. B. Ice farm into the Big Injun pay and has a natural producer, good for 75 barrels a day. This location is the farthest west of any producing well in the Fallen Timber Run district, and makes the outlook for an extension quite promising. Near Rula, in Clay district, Monongalia county, Carnahan & Debendarfer have drilled their second test on the Reason Sine farm into the Big Injun pay and have a light gasser. The first test drilled on this farm came in a very good gasser in the same formation and has a show of oil. In the salt sand district, in Ritchie county, there is a good deal of new work starting. There is quite a large scope of territory in Murphy district that looks good for producers ranging from 10 to 30 barrels a day. On Silver run, in that district, the Arps Oil Company is ready to drill at a test on the John Hill farm. In the same locality the same company's test on the S. A. Moats farm is holding up at 15 barrels a day. In the Wick district, on Sugar creek, Tyler county, the Carter Oil Company has drilled its No. 6 on the Carse heirs' farm into the Big Injun pay and has a show for a nice producer. In the same district, the same company has the rig completed for a second test on the Ruth Owens farm. The same company's test on the O. P. Garrison farm, completed last week, is holding up at 25 barrels a day. Near Hebron, close to the Pleasants-Ritchie county line, the South Penn Oil Company has drilled its test on the S. Pyles farm through the Keener sand and has a light pumper.

A careful Bible student in this lecture shows exactly what the Bible teaches and what it does not teach on this subject. He declares "If the Bible does teach that eternal torture is the fate of all except the saints, it should be preached, thundered, weekly, daily, hourly. If it does not so teach the fact should be made known and the foul stain, dishonoring the holy name, removed."

SHE BLAMES SALOONIST.

Wife Says L. L. Sablodowsky Is Responsible for Husband's Alleged Drunkenness.

Mrs. Mary Glyder of 92 Logan street filed a remonstrance against L. L. Sablodowsky, an applicant for a retail liquor license at 1012 Fifth avenue. Mrs. Glyder alleges that Sablodowsky is unfit to conduct a saloon, and sells to people of known intemperate habits. She claims that despite her protests he continued to sell to her husband, A. Glyder, a tailor, and that on numerous occasions the latter had to be taken out of Sablodowsky's saloon in a drunken condition.

Among other allegations it is claimed that Sablodowsky and his son had four suits of clothes, valued at $100, made by Glyder during the last year, which were to be taken out in trade at the bar, and that but for the kindness of the neighbors both she and her children would have starved.

Wabash Wants Braddock Street.

Owners of property on Washington street, Braddock, are much wrought up over a report that the Wabash railroad is seeking right-of-way along that thoroughfare for a branch line to tap that city, McKeesport and Connellsville. The street is practically the only one of importance in the Braddock district free of tracks of some sort. Owners of property along the street are prepared to fight strongly any attempt on the part of the railroad company to occupy the street.
